ENOUGH! INDIA HOLDS UP A MIRROR TO TRUMP'S HYPOCRISY

JAYANTH JACOB & DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

IN a strong rebuttal to renewed US criticism on India's trade with Russia, New Delhi on Monday accused Washington and its allies of "unjustified and unreasonable" targeting, reminding them that it was the United States itself that once encouraged those very purchases to stabilise global markets.

Ruling out any rethink on its energy trade with Russia, the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) stated: "Like any major economy, India will take all necessary measures to safeguard its national interests and economic security."

The sharp message came minutes after US President Donald Trump threatened to 'substantially' raise tariffs to punish India for its purchase and resale of Russian oil. Trump's statement posted on Truth Social on Monday, said: "India is not only buying massive amounts of Russian Oil... they are selling it for big profits. They don't care how many people in Ukraine are being killed by the Russian War Machine... I will be substantially raising the tariff paid by India to the USA."

In its blistering response, India made it clear that such rhetoric smacks of geopolitical hypocrisy. "India has been targeted by the United States and the European Union for importing oil from Russia after the commencement of the Ukraine conflict," said MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal. "But in fact, India began importing from Russia because traditional supplies were diverted to Europe. The US at that time actively encouraged such imports to strengthen global energy market stability."

TARIFF TRACKER

Jaiswal's message was loud and clear that India will not be lectured. "India's imports are meant to ensure predictable and affordable energy costs to the Indian consumer. They are a necessity compelled by global market realities... However, it is revealing that the very nations criticising India are themselves indulging in trade with Russia... Such trade is not even a vital national compulsion."

— Donald Trump

India listed hard numbers to underscore the double standards. The EU in 2024 had a bilateral trade of Euro 67.5 billion in goods with Russia. It had trade in services estimated at Euro 17.2 billion in 2023. This is significantly more than India's total trade with Russia that year or subsequently. European imports of LNG in 2024 reached a record 16.5 million tonnes, surpassing the previous record of 15.21 million tonnes in 2022.

Trump's snooty remarks evoked a sharp reaction from Russia as well. "Washington is unable to accept the erosion of its dominance in an emerging multipolar international order... No tariff wars or sanctions can halt the natural course of history," said Maria Vladimirovna Zakharova, spokesperson of Russia's Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

THE Oval match was the story of the series. It reflected the ferocity with which it was fought. First Test, England win comfortably. India return the favour with same magnanimity. Third Test, England win but with quite an effort. India draw despite trailing by 311 runs in the fourth. It would have been a travesty for cricket had the last not gone to the wire. India won by the barest of margins — six runs. Series 2-2.

The celebration in the middle was wild. It's poetic that after carrying the burden of bowling in the series, Mohammed Siraj took the final wicket and finished with a fifer (four in first innings and 23 overall). There he stood celebrating like his football idol Cristiano Ronaldo. He admitted how he changed the wallpaper on his phone on Monday morning to inspire him on the field.

The conditions early on favoured pacers and Siraj was right on the money. With only 35 runs to get, margin of error was thin. The crowd, like in all days thronged the stadium to witness one of cricket's most enthralling finishes. India did not disappoint, either. Siraj in beginning of the series was in the shadow of Jasprit Bumrah. As a batter, he was the last to fall in the third Test at Lord's.

On Monday, he was the architect of a historic win. A lot was at stake for the two incredibly talented sides. No series has seen so many ups and downs or twists and turns as this one. If Harry Brook and Joe Root were regaling the audience with their artistry, Siraj enthralled with 25 deliveries he bowled out of 53. He had taken three out of four wickets that fell. And, of course, the adage of frontline bowler for India will be his to keep. As for now, it's Oval and out. P17

Transport staff to go on strike across K'taka from today

AKNISREE KARTHIK @Bengaluru

BUSES run by state transport corporations will stay off roads from 6 am on Tuesday, as corporation employees decided to go ahead with their indefinite strike after talks with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah failed on Monday. Though the state government is roping in private vehicles to minimise impact on travellers, the strike will still inconvenience lakhs of commuters as the operation of thousands of state-operated buses across Karnataka and outside will be affected.

Though the Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the Joint Action Committee (JAC) of Trade Unions of KSRTC, led by AITUC-affiliated KSRTC Staff and Workers' Federation, to put on hold the proposed indefinite strike from August 5 for a day, the JAC said it received the HC writ petition and order copy only by 7.30 pm and all the members of the JAC were not available for discussion and decision. "We have submitted the writ petition for legal opinion and will decide on Tuesday. The strike will start as announced," Federation General Secretary Vijaya Bhaskar said.

The JAC, which consists of trade unions of Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC), Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC), North Western Road Transport Corporation (NWKRTC) and Kalyana Karnataka West Road Transport Corporation (KKRTC), had called for an indefinite strike seeking implementation of many of their demands. The major demands include 25% pay hike with effect from January 1, 2024, settlement of pending salary arrears for 38 months (January 1, 2020, to February 28, 2023) and wage revision. P7

SIT finds human bones near site No 11

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

THE Special Investigation Team (SIT), which is exhuming alleged burial sites shown by the witness-complainant in the Dharmasthala mass burial case, found human skeletal remains close to an alleged burial site on Monday.

The SIT officials and the complainant entered the forested area on the highway side of Dharmasthala village on Monday to resume exhumation at Site No. 11 around 11 am.

Before the exhumation started, the complainant told the officials that he will show a fresh spot and while they were on their way, they found the human remains under a tree. A skull, a few bones, a rib and a knotted saree were found around 80 metres away from the Site No. 11, said an officer associated with SIT, requesting anonymity. The mysterious death could have occurred recently, and the remains will be sent for forensic analysis to determine the exact cause of death, sources said.

Meanwhile, Jayanth, an activist and a resident of Ichilampady in Belthangady taluk, filed a complaint with the Dharmasthala police. Jayanth had visited the SIT office in Belthangady on Saturday to file a complaint and submit details of a mysterious death of a teenage girl that happened over 15 years ago. He had alleged that the girl's body, found in a decomposed state, was buried without any legal procedures.

Dakshina Kannada SP Dr Arun K said Jayanth was told to file his complaint at the Dharmasthala police station. Necessary action would be taken, he added.

An unnatural death (UDR) case will be registered in this regard, a police officer said.

SC's 'true Indian' barb at Rahul

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday castigated Congress leader Rahul Gandhi for his comments on China capturing Indian territory in the wake of the Galwan attack in 2020, adding if he was a "true Indian", he wouldn't have said it.

"How do you (Rahul) get to know when 2000 sq km was acquired by China? What is the credible material? A true Indian will not say this. When there is a conflict across border, can you say all this? Why can't you ask the question in Parliament?" asked a bench comprising justices Dipankar Datta and Augustine George Masih.

The court, however, stayed further proceedings against him in a defamation case in Lucknow and fixed the matter for further hearing after three weeks. During the hearing, Justice Datta said, "just because you have 19(1)(a) you cannot say anything."

Singhvi: It was about suppression on info

Singhvi said that Rahul was only on the point of proper disclosure and raising concerns about the suppression of information

Senior advocate Abhishek Manu Singhvi, appearing for Rahul, said: "If he can't say these things which are published in the Press, he can't be a leader of opposition... It is also possible that a true Indian will say that our 20 Indian soldiers were beaten up and killed and that it is a matter of concern."

The defamation complaint filed by Uday Shankar Srivastava, the former Border Roads Organisation (BRO) director, was pending in a Lucknow court. His petition said Rahul made the 'derogatory' remarks was on December 16, 2022, during his Bharat Jodo Yatra.

In May, the Allahabad High Court had rejected Rahul's plea challenging the issuance of summons by an MP/ MLA court in Lucknow. The court said that freedom of speech and expression does not include the freedom to make statements defamatory to the Indian Army.

In its pushback later in the day, the Congress said every patriotic Indian has sought answers on China since the 2020 Galwan incident, adding the Centre has chosen to obfuscate and hide the truth with its policy of "DDLJ—deny, distract, lie, and justify."

CM gets SC quota report, cabinet to discuss on Aug 7

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

JUSTICE (retd) HN Nagamohan Das submitted his report on sub-classification of reservation for Scheduled Castes (SC) to the state government on Monday. The report will be placed before the cabinet on August 7 to decide on its implementation, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah told reporters after receiving the report. Rubbishing controversies surrounding the SC caste survey by the commission, he said there were no issues with the survey.

The report is 1,766-page long and includes the survey data and analysis with six recommendations. Justice Das' suggestions include division of 17% quota for internal reservation among 101 castes by classifying them as ABCD groups, within SCs.

"I was asked to submit a report on internal reservation under my chairmanship. We conducted the survey for 60 days by using a mobile app. Over 27 lakh Scheduled Caste families have been covered. Everything has been verified and the report submitted. It is now the property of the government. It is up to the government to accept or reject it," Justice Das told reporters after submitting the report at Vidhana Soudha.

The communities that participated in the survey are anxiously waiting to know their population and the quantum of reservation recommended for them. P4

Shibu Soren and the soil-soaked struggle for self-rule

V V P SHARMA @ New Delhi

SHIBU Soren was an avatar to the Santhals of the Chhotanagpur plateau of the undivided Bihar.

They called him Dishom Guru — the god of all 10 directions. In his younger days, his black locks, flowing beard and chiselled features mesmerised the tribals as much as they frustrated the Bihar Police, as he led a movement for tribal rights that saw a separate tribal state of Jharkhand carved from Bihar in his lifetime.

At 81, Soren breathed his last in Sir Ganga Ram Hospital in the national capital from kidney complications on Monday.

Called Guruji by now, he became chief minister thrice, never able to complete a full term as politics or police cases disrupted his reign.

He even went to Delhi as minister at the Centre, but as the years dragged on, and the health taking its toll, he hung up his boots and, succumbing to dynasty politics, handed over control of the party he cofounded, Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM), to his son, Hemant. The younger Soren is the current chief minister of a coalition with the Congress.

Shibu Soren's legacy is inseparable from the struggle for tribal rights in undivided Bihar. A Santhal, he grew up in an oppressive environment where politicians, landlords and usurers milked tribals of their dignity and displaced them from their hereditary forest dwellings, reducing them to literal slavery.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi pays respects to Shibu Soren in New Delhi on Monday | PTI

The angry young man decided to rebel and become the prophet of tribal identity. His target was the "diku", an outsider in the tribal language. That could mean any of the many oppressors. His demand was for 'jal, jungle, zameen', water, forest, land, which the tribals considered their god-given resources.

The movement he birthed thus arose from generations of exploitation, dispossession and deprivation of tribals — he preferred 'adivasis' — till in the early 1970s it turned into a political struggle under the banner of the JMM. It was headquartered in the hundreds of tribal villages, the tribal councils deciding agitational agendas, the Santhali folk songs arousing political passions.

Soren nurtured the movement across the land. He would move from village to village on foot. He had nothing he could call his own except the clothes and chappals he wore.

The villagers fed him, listened to him, and obeyed him blindly. He would explain to them facts of life they felt but could not express.

Heavy rain for 3 more days, brace for traffic snarls, flooded roads

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

MONDAY evening's spell of steady rain brought down temperatures and left the city soaking wet, in a sequel to Sunday's overnight rain.

The IMD has predicted heavy rainfall accompanied by gusty winds, to moderate rainfall for the next three days across South Interior Karnataka, including Bengaluru city. It had issued a yellow alert for 11 districts, especially along the coast last week, predicting "heavy to very heavy to extremely heavy rainfall".

Meanwhile, 45mm of overnight rain flooded over 20 homes in BDA Layout, Kasturinagar, on Monday morning. The rain left main roads flooded, impacting traffic on Ramamurthy Nagar Road leading to Hoskote, and Veerasandra near Hosur Road early Monday morning. A tree was uprooted at NRI Layout in Ramamurthy Nagar.

According to residents of Kasturinagar, at 12.30am, water from the drains swelled, gushed on to roads and into homes, damaging sumps, basements, lifts and furniture. An underpass connecting Kasturinagar West, Puravankara Midtown apartments, and areas of Vijinapura to Tin Factory is flooded, and residents have to take a detour of 4-6km to reach Tin Factory Metro Station or bus stop. Residents have flagged a lack of coordination between the Railways and BBMP, and urged for better coordination.

The reason for flooding was attributed to desilting of north side of Benniganahalli Lake pending for 25 years, and stormwater drain work in the lake surroundings.

Ramanath Rao, director of Kasturinagar Welfare Association, recalled floods in Kasturinagar for the first time in May this year, and wondered why a planned Bangalore Development Authority layout was prone to floods. The flooding on Sunday midnight was the second such incident, and indicates that desilting of the lake and stormwater drain work should be taken up on priority, he said.

The north side of the lake is cut off due to railway tracks on three sides. Though the lake is the property of BBMP, access to it depends on the Railways. If the lake is desilted and stormwater drain from Kasturinagar west side is fixed, besides the inlet between north and south of the lake, flooding will stop, Rao said.

Railway and BBMP officials held a joint inspection, and an official said BBMP will be allowed to carry out desilting work and access will be given from west side of Kasturinagar.

Basheer Jamadar, a member of Kasturinagar Residents' Welfare Association, said, "The underpass is a link to Ramamurthy Nagar, Horamavu and Whitefield via Tin Factory. Every time it rains, the underpass is shut for traffic, and motorists have to take a 6km detour to reach Tin Factory."

Rakhi Paul Nandy, a resident of Puravankara Midtown, said there are two motor pumps installed by BBMP but one does not work and there is no permanent solution, so apartment residents are stranded during rain.

BBMP Assistant Executive Engineer for Major Roads Bhagyashree said there is no permanent solution for underpass flooding, and sought solutions from the people.

BBMP wants BWSSB to stop sewage flow into lakes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a move to control the inflow of sewage into the lakes of Bengaluru, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao has directed officials of the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) to take appropriate action.

Addressing a meeting on Monday at BBMP office in the head office, which focused on the control of sewage inflow and the development of lakes in the city, the Chief Commissioner emphasised the need to identify lakes currently receiving sewage inflow and to construct diversion lines in such areas to redirect the sewage away from the water bodies.

"Due to the discharge of sewage from nearby drains, both the walking paths around the lakes are being damaged and contaminated water is flowing directly into the lakes. Immediate repair works should be undertaken to address this", he said.

It was also noted that some individuals are illegally discharging sewage into stormwater drains, leading to contamination of the lakes. The Chief Commissioner directed that such violators be identified and legal action be taken against them.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao at a meeting on Monday | EXPRESS

He instructed that a comprehensive assessment be conducted to identify the challenges associated with lake development, to list the necessary actions required from both the BWSSB and the BBMP, and to set a clear timeline for the completion of related works.

He highlighted that garbage is being dumped into the city's stormwater drains, which eventually find their way into the lakes. He called for immediate and effective intervention by the stormwater drain division to prevent waste from reaching the lakes.

The Chief Commissioner also emphasised the need to accelerate the completion of Sewage Treatment Plants (STPs) being constructed across the city by the BWSSB. Speeding up these projects will enable the release of treated water into the lakes, thereby reducing contamination levels.

The Chief Commissioner also directed the Chief Engineer (SWD) to conduct a survey of outlet drains for lakes where they are currently missing. "This task must be completed within the next 15 days on a priority basis". He said and added to explore the possibility of installing trash barriers along the SWDs to prevent the accumulation of floating debris at lake inlets.

KIA MOST PRONE TO BIRD STRIKES AMONG AIRPORTS IN SOUTH INDIA

ANUBHAB ROY @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU'S Kempegowda International Airport (KIA), which is accustomed to global admiration for its prized Terminal 2, has found itself associated with a concerning statistic. According to data revealed by the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), KIA stands out as the airport most prone to bird strikes in the South Indian region, while ranking fourth behind Delhi, Mumbai and Ahmedabad at the national level.

A total of 535 bird strikes were reported at KIA from 2022 till May 2025. Hyderabad and Chennai registered 420 and 379 respectively, for the same time period.

Bird strikes are inadvertent collisions between aircraft and birds, often with the former hitting flocks of the latter. While statistically harmless in most cases, bird strikes happen during the two most critical phases of flying: take-off and landing. Most bird strikes cause critical harm, if any, to a single engine, which still gives pilots the leeway to execute emergency landings. However, in one of the most infamous cases of bird strikes, US Airways Flight 1549 – an Airbus A320 – had to make an emergency landing on the Hudson River, having suffered a dual-engine failure after a flock of geese hit the aircraft shortly after take-off.

KIA introduces 'Rhythm Of BLR' as sonic identity

Bengaluru Airport introduced its signature sonic identity, "Rhythm of BLR," crafted from its anthem composed by Grammy Award winner Padma Shri Ricky Kej, a musical expression designed to reflect the city's energy and connect emotionally with travellers. Developed in collaboration with sonic branding firm BrandMusiq, the new identity is part of the airport's "Feels Like BLR" campaign.

But why is Bengaluru unfortunately above the rest of the South Indian airports in this regard? As MB Krishna, a city-based ornithologist, shares, "The whole area where the airport is built, used to be a lake. Additionally, the surrounding areas are agricultural, which explains the bird population." Krishna added that since the bird species have been there long before the airport came up, their lives should be prioritised.

According to a spokesperson from Bangalore International Airport Limited (BIAL), the airport's "in-house Bird Aircraft Strike Hazard Management (BASHM) team employs a data-driven approach that goes beyond regulatory requirements to effectively minimise bird strike risks. Real-time automated bird monitoring systems alert our bird chasing team, enabling immediate response. Daily data analysis informs our adaptive wildlife hazard management plans and predictive forecasting of bird activity, optimising deterrent deployment and runway usage".

AI FLIGHT RETURNS TO KIA AFTER MID-AIR TECH SNAG

Bengaluru: An Air India flight to Kolkata, which took off from the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) on Sunday, returned following a technical glitch mid-air. The aircraft circled over the airport to burn fuel before executing a safe landing. "One of our flights from Bengaluru returned to the airport following a technical issue. The aircraft circled to reduce fuel and weight before executing a safe, precautionary landing," an Air India Express spokesperson said on Monday . An alternate aircraft was arranged to ferry the passengers to Kolkata. The airline is investigating the technical snag in the aircraft. The flight took off at 7 pm and landed at KIA at 9.04 pm on Sunday, according to airport sources. The alternate flight took off at 2.25 am on Monday. The flight IX2718, an Airbus A320 aircraft, returned after being airborne for over two hours, according to information available on the flight tracking website Flightradar24.com.

DOG BITE CASES

Lokayukta grills officials on inaction

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

"WHY was no action taken despite complaints by Mallesh Palya residents over stray dog biting 40-50 people? Are you waiting for the number of dog bites to reach a century?"

This was how Lokayukta Justice B S Patil questioned BBMP officials during a hearing on Monday, after he was informed by the representatives of the Netravati Colony Residents Welfare Association that 40-42 people were bitten by dogs since January 2025.

The representatives complained that BBMP officials used to catch dogs that go on a biting spree of people but release them in the same place. Four dogs have bitten more than 40 people, they alleged.

The Lokayukta ordered that the officials responsible for inaction should be identified and action initiated against them.

The Lokayukta also directed officials to gather the statistics of dog bites, rabies cases, vaccination, dog shelters, etc., by registering the cases against all the deputy commissioners, chief executive officers of zilla panchayats, commissioners of the veterinary department and urban local bodies across the state. Further hearing was adjourned to September 19.

Taking note, he directed the BBMP to release compensation to Seethappa's family immediately as per the directions issued by the Supreme Court and high court.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

05TH August : Today is traditionally a day to be assertive. We all need to stand up for ourselves and what we know to be right. It's time to be courageous, but having courage also means having the courage to listen. Try find out how the people close to you really feel, and then see what you can do to help them.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's rush hour as far as the planets are concerned, but the lights are on amber. Whether you choose to go ahead is therefore very much up to you and your own understanding of your unique individual situation. What concerns you, as much as anything, are hidden resentments, especially other people's!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There is still a measure of uncertainty, and confusing developments keep occurring, but there is a positive side to the unfolding drama. Hopefully you're now at the stage at which you can see increasing stability and security emerging from the fog.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Some planets are urging you to move forward. Others are persuading you to stay still. Changes may seem as if they're coming out of the blue, but this is not how astrology works. In fact, everything that happens now relates to developments which took place a month or even a year ago.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Your inner tension may be a little more than is healthy. Yet I imagine that, if you try to relax now, you may allow an opportunity to slip through your fingers. That is why you should keep your eye on the ball and check up on every single detail.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You are not normally one to doubt your own confidence. Yet I'd like to see you questioning your own priorities, partly because there are fresh discoveries to be made. It's all a question of seeing the world anew, realising how much you have taken for granted.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
What you need now is enough money to get you out of a fix. Frankly, it seems to me that it's about time you enjoyed a spot of luxury, and if your earnings are to increase, it must be soon. Never forget though, that, if you set out to persuade someone that you're in the right, you will almost certainly be successful.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It may not be time for congratulations just yet, but it soon will be. You'll have something to celebrate over the next few days. Turn your back on the past and resolve to make a completely fresh start. But - and this is a very big 'but' - you must keep a very close watch on all practical developments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Today may not be easy, but there's little you can't handle with your usual skill. You may react to even surprise developments with a sense of deja vu, as if you had known all along what would happen. Life at the moment can be so strange! That's partly because failure turns into success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Only a very negative frame of mind will prevent you from ending the week better off materially and spiritually than when it began. On the other hand, a little optimism will carry you to the stars. There could be a spot of social friction, but only if you fail to keep your commitments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
A victory in one area of life has probably increased the likelihood of delay in another. It's an astrological law, you see, that the universe always returns to a state of balance. Yet right now you might be wondering just when that's going to happen!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Someone special is reaching out to you now. They may come from a different world, one you don't know about, but this doesn't mean that the connection won't become valuable and permanent. Neither does it mean that you won't soon be able to benefit from the contact.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You may have squandered a great deal of time on one particular project. Or have you? Wait a while and you'll see how nothing is wasted and that sooner or later your experience and expertise will be highly prized. You've reached a turning-point and I'm sure you'll handle partners with your usual subtlety.

11-yr-old boy poured pesticide into water at Shivamogga school

Reason: He was made leader at school, but nobody followed his instructions

Police during their visit to the school at Hoovinakone village | EXPRESS

MARX TEJASWI @ Shivamogga

THE investigation into the shocking incident of pesticide being mixed into the water tank of a lower primary school at Hoovinakone in Hosanagara taluk of Shivamogga district has revealed a startling fact: The main accused is an 11-year-old boy studying in Class 5 at the same school.

The police said the boy had been made a leader at the school, but nobody followed his instructions. Around 15 days ago, a student from the Class 2 had allegedly mixed phenol into a classmate's drinking water bottle. Drawing an idea from that incident, the boy reportedly planned to mix pesticide into the school's water tank.

SP Mithun Kumar told The New Indian Express that the boy brought the pesticide, meant for ginger crop, from his home and poured it into the school water tank. "He arrived at the school by 9 am before it officially opened and poured the pesticide into the tank. Two students saw him doing it, but he threatened them with consequences if they told anyone. He even went to other classes and warned them not to speak about it," he said.

The police cracked the case after questioning several students. The boy will be sent to a juvenile correction home. Asked whether anyone instigated the boy, the police said no one else was involved.

The incident came to light on Thursday last week when the school kitchen staff detected foul-smelling, milky water in the tank connected to the kitchen. The tank water had remained unused because of a power outage the previous night. The kitchen staff had instead sourced water from a different tank to prepare milk. Seventeen children consumed the milk, but no one fell ill.

DDPI Manjunath said a standard operating procedure has been issued to schools to follow before preparing midday meals. The SOP includes the inspection of water before preparing food and appointment of a teacher as a nodal officer at each school.

After the incident, the police had formed four teams to trace the culprits. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had also termed the incident a "terrorist act" aimed at causing mass harm.

TWO ARRESTED FOR CONVERTING INT'L CALLS INTO LOCAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Mohammed Saffaf and Fayaz MA

CENTRAL Crime Branch (CCB) sleuths busted an international illegal telephone racket operating in the city, and arrested two persons who were converting international calls into local ones using a SIM box and mobile app, causing loss of several crores of rupees to the government and telecom companies.

A SIM box is a device that allows the routing of phone calls through VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) networks, effectively bypassing traditional international routes and terminating calls as local. It houses multiple SIM cards and connects to a VoIP gateway.

The accused have been identified as Fayaz MA (31) and Mohammed Saffaf (30), both natives of Malappuram in Kerala.

According to police, a relative of one of the accused, who works in Dubai, found that migrant workers were struggling to make calls to India due to high call charges. The relative then shared this information with the accused, suggesting they could make money by facilitating cheaper calls.

The accused procured SIM cards from foreign countries via courier, and used the SIM box to route calls illegally. They made crores of rupees through the racket and transferred a share of the profits to their handler every month through hawala channels. They had been operating the racket from a rented accommodation in Immadihalli in Whitefield for the past six months, police said.

Based on a complaint from a private telecom service provider and the Department of Telecommunications on July 30, CCB officials raided the premises and arrested the duo. They seized 703 SIM cards and other equipment. The total loss to the exchequer is currently under investigation.

IN THE DOCK

2 more held for sending obscene messages to actress Ramya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TWO more persons were arrested on Sunday for allegedly sending vulgar messages to actor and former MP Ramya on Instagram. So far, a total of four accused have been arrested by the Central Crime Branch (CCB) officers in connection with the case.

The police said the two arrested individuals have been identified as Rajesh and Bhuvan Gowda. In addition, 11 more individuals have been identified in connection with the online abuse. Efforts are underway to track down the remaining accused, the police added.

A CCB officer said, "We are verifying whether they are fans of a particular actor, but we are taking the case seriously as it involves online abuse."

Ramya filed a complaint with the city police commissioner on July 28 against 43 social media accounts after receiving misogynistic, obscene, and threatening comments, allegedly from fans and fan groups of actor Darshan. This followed her expression of support for the Supreme Court's observations in the Renukaswamy murder case, in which Darshan is the prime accused. She had demanded justice for the victim's family.

Techie dupes cybercrime victims via fake legal aid firm

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A 37-year-old software engineer has been arrested by the CCB for creating a fake legal aid service and cheating cybercrime victims. The accused Thufail Ahmed is a resident of Kothanur and a native of Cuddalore in Tamil Nadu. According to the police, a victim from Ramamurthy Nagar had lost Rs 1.5 crore in a cyber fraud in February. While searching online for legal aid services, the victim was contacted by Ahmed, who posed as a representative of 'Quickmoto Legal Service' and collected Rs 12.5 lakh from the victim promising to recover the lost money through legal means, but duped her. Police found that the company had no physical office. However, another fake firm operated by the accused under the name 'India Legal Service' was traced in Kasturi Nagar and Ahmed was arrested.

The police said the accused had set up a call centre in Kasturi Nagar, employing 12 people as tele-callers to identify and target cybercrime victims seeking legal help. They contacted victims through VoIP to avoid detection. Ahmed's brother, who works in Dubai, allegedly assisted him in setting up fake companies. Police found the firm was involved in illegal transactions amounting to crores of rupees. So far, 29 cases have been registered against the accused across the country.

'Goodbye mom': Teen ends life, leaves note behind

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 14-year-old boy ended his life at his residence, leaving behind a note apologising to his family members, at Banagiri Nagar in Banashankari on Sunday night.

The reason for the extreme step is yet to be ascertained. The deceased has been identified as Gandhaar, a Class 7 student of a private school in Banashankari. His mother Savitha is a folk singer and his father Ganesh Prasad is a musician.

According to police, Gandhaar hanged himself from the window grill of his room with a towel. Gandhaar's elder brother, who went to wake him around 5.30 am on Monday, found him hanging.

In his note, Gandhaar said, "Whoever is reading this, please don't cry. I am already in heaven." He apologised to his family members for his "mistakes" and "troubles" he caused.

"I know how you guys are feeling now. It hurts, I know. I did this to make this house a better place. I know I have made you all angry, sad, mad, irritated, etc., but that was never my intention," Gandhaar said.

Seeking forgiveness from his family members, he said he lived 14 happy years. He asked his family members to tell his friends that he loved them. "Love you all and goodbye, mom," he said.

Police said Gandhaar might be distressed over something and took the extreme step. His mother left for Australia on Friday to participate in a show there.

The postmortem will be conducted on Tuesday after his mother's arrival. A case of unnatural death has been registered.

CONGRESS' 'ELECTORAL FRAUD' PROTEST DEFERRED TO AUGUST 8

Rescheduled due to Soren's death; Party's fight will continue with greater rigour: Surjewala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress' much-anticipated August 5 protest over alleged electoral fraud at Bengaluru's Freedom Park has now been deferred to August 8 in the light of the death of former Jharkhand CM Shibu Soren.

Addressing the media in Bengaluru on Monday, AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar, who is also state Congress chief, said that the decision was taken after holding consultation with top Congress leadership, including AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi.

"Mr Shibu Soren was not just a towering tribal leader but also a trusted ally of the Congress who stood by its ideology through turbulent times," said Surjewala. "On behalf of the AICC and KPCC, I offer heartfelt condolences. His legacy as a champion of the downtrodden will continue to inspire future generations," he said.

"The 'Vote Adhikar Rally & Protest' scheduled for August 5 at Freedom Park, Bengaluru, stands postponed to August 8, in view of the sudden demise of Shibu Soren, Former CM and one of the tallest ST leaders. Rahul Gandhi's determined campaign against ECI - 'Election Capture of India', shall continue with even greater rigour. Every Congressmen & Women shall enthusiastically join the fight for 'Clean & Accountable Electoral Rolls', 'Neutrality & Impartiality of Election Commission', 'Decisive Fight against Vote Chori' & 'One Man - One Vote' principle to be upheld against Voter Fraud in name of Electoral Rolls Revision," he stated on 'X'.

AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar at Freedom Park in Bengaluru on Monday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

Shivakumar, speaking at Freedom Park, said that Kharge and Rahul will attend Soren's funeral scheduled to be held at 3pm on Tuesday. "Rahul Gandhi was scheduled to arrive in Bengaluru on Monday morning for the protest. However, in light of Shibu Soren's final rites, scheduled at 3 PM on Tuesday, we decided not to hold the event at the last minute," the DyCM said.

He said that the protest will no be held on August 8 at the same venue and time, despite it being the Varamahalakshmi festival. "We will take care to ensure that the festivities and celebrations of the public are not in any way disturbed. The party's internal legislative meeting will also be scheduled after discussions with the Chief Minister," he added.

On BJP's counter-protest plans, Shivakumar said that criticism and counter-protests are welcome in a democracy. "But the Election Commission must remain impartial. Our candidate from Mahadevapura had raised a serious complaint during the polls, which was ignored. We now have more evidence and will place it before the public for them to judge," he said, adding that the protest aims to bring national attention to what the Congress alleges is a serious threat to electoral integrity.

Rahul Gandhi could have gone to court on atom bomb of proof, says Ashoka

MYSURU: Assembly opposition leader R Ashoka alleged here on Monday that Congress, which claims it has an atom bomb of proof on vote theft, has no documents. If Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi had such important documents, he should have approached courts, rather than coming before people, he said. Ashoka told media persons that the electoral rolls and Election Commission were fine when Congress won 136 seats in the Assembly elections in 2023, but had problems with EVMs and EC when it could win only nine seats in the Parliamentary elections, he charged. He said Congress was in power when Parliament elections were held and electoral roll draft was distributed to all political party agents and later the final list was released. Let Rahul plan a protest in Bengaluru, drop an atom bomb, missile or machine gun at anytime, he said.

'IMPROVE QUALITY'

All Ayush medicines now to be brought under FDA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said on Monday that all medicines under the Department of Ayush, including those in Ayurvedic, Unani, Siddha, and Homeopathy streams, will now be brought under the drugs control wing of the Food Safety and Drug Administration (FDA).

Addressing reporters here, he said this is specifically to improve the quality of traditional medicines.

He said the Health Department has reduced the time it took to recall substandard medicines from the market. Earlier, once a drug was flagged as Not of Standard Quality (NSQ), it could take up to 30 days to take it back from pharmacies and distributors. Now, that time has been cut to just two days.

Rao said this is crucial because such medicines, if left on shelves, may continue to be taken by patients, posing serious health risks. In June alone, drugs worth Rs 40.48 lakh that did not meet the safety standards were recalled and seized across the state.

The department noted that in July, 1,433 drug samples were analysed by laboratories in Bengaluru, Hubballi and Ballari. Of them, 67 were found to be substandard with the department filing 29 cases. A special enforcement drive was held on June 24 and 25, during which 279 inspections were conducted at drug stores across the state. During the drive, 231 show cause notices were issued to offending establishments. In all, 15 compliance notices were served, Rao said.

On digitisation of services, the minister said all applications related to blood centres are now processed through the Online National Drugs Licensing System (ONDLS) portal, with licenses issued exclusively online. In addition, an online platform has been launched to issue Recognised Medical Institution (RMI) certificates required by institutions authorised to handle essential narcotic drugs.

Food samples

In July, 1,557 street food vendors were inspected. Items such as fruits, vegetables, water bottles, bakery products and spice powders were checked. Of them, 406 violated safety norms. Spot fines amounting to Rs 44,500 were collected from the violators. At 186 bus stations across the state, 889 food stalls were inspected. Of them, 206 violated safety norms.

Rao said as part of the drive, the department collected six samples of kebab from Empire Restaurant and all contained banned colours, including Sunset Yellow.

He said the restaurant is now serving kebabs without colours. The minister also urged people to seek good quality food and report cases where they find eateries serving artificially coloured food items.

Minister opens mental health hospital in B'luru

To boost mental health infrastructure, Amaha, a private mental healthcare provider, opened its first super-specialty mental health hospital in Thanisandra, Bengaluru, on Monday. The 27-bed hospital, launched by Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao, aims to deliver intensive, trauma-informed, multidisciplinary inpatient care for individuals facing severe psychiatric conditions and acute mental health crises.

Systematic report made using modern tech: Dr G

THE SC left community leadership, which often claims that they are more in numbers than SC right, hope for not less than 6.5% out of the 17% reservation. Echoing the sentiments of the community, former minister HH Anjaneya urged the CM to make the Justice HN Nagamohan Das report public.

While Bhovis, Lambanis, Korachas and Koramas have been classified as one group, other castes are also expecting their fair share of the quota.

Ministers hailing from different SC castes - Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara, Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa, Food and Civil Supplies Minister KH Muniyappa, Excise Minister RB Timmapur, RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge and Backward Classes Welfare Minister Shivaraj Thangadagi were present when Justice Das submitted the report.

The CM directed Chief Secretary Dr Shalini Rajneesh and social welfare department principal secretary to take steps to place it before the cabinet meeting on Thursday.

Dr Parameshwara said the committee has submitted a historical report. "A systematic report, prepared using modern technology, has been submitted to the government. The contents of the report are not known. The chief minister has already given instructions that the report should be placed before the next cabinet meeting. There will be a discussion on implementing the report and later a decision will be taken," he said.

"For the first time in the country, such a report has been prepared in a systematic and scientific manner. The report must be accepted by the cabinet as it is not my decision to make. Even the CM cannot decide alone," he said.

The commission conducted the survey from May 5 to July 6, 2025, covering 27,24,768 families and 1,07,01,982 people from Scheduled Castes. Data on educational backwardness, lack of representation in government, employment, and social backwardness have been analysed among 101 castes.

The CMO stated that the available 17% reservation will be distributed by classifying sub-castes of Scheduled Castes as per the instructions of the Supreme Court, after analysing the data collected through the survey and the government agencies. It noted that Justice Das did not receive any honorarium for his work.

The Supreme Court through its verdict on August 1, 2024, under Article 14 of the Constitution, authorised state governments to provide internal reservation after reclassifying sub-castes based on empirical data to ensure social justice for all. The Karnataka government formed the commission in January this year. The commission submitted an interim report on March 27, recommending a fresh survey due to lack of existing data. The Cabinet approved the interim recommendation the same day, and a statewide survey was conducted between May 5 and July 6.

Mahadevappa's claim laughably false: Ashoka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after Social Welfare Minister HC Mahadevappa claimed that Tipu Sultan had laid the foundation stone for the KRS dam near Mysuru, the BJP accused the Congress of taking appeasement politics to a dangerous new low and trying to distort history.

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka said Tipu Sultan died in 1799 and construction of the dam began in 1911. The dam was named Krishnaraja Sagara in honour of Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wodeyar, the visionary king, who financed the project by selling the royal family's jewels.

"Minister Mahadevappa's claim that Tipu Sultan had laid the foundation stone for the dam is not only laughably false, but also a disgraceful insult to the legacy of Rajarshi Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wodeyar and the Mysore royal family," Ashoka said.

Ashoka said the facts are indisputable and people of Mysuru still remember Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wodeyar as the architect of modern Mysore and a compassionate reformer who uplifted backward classes and farmers alike. "Congress leaders continue their systematic campaign to undermine his legacy, first with CM Siddaramaiah's son and MLC Dr Yathindra comparing Siddaramaiah to Nalwadi Wodeyar, and now with minister Mahadevappa attributing KRS to a religious bigot who had nothing to do with it," Ashoka stated in his X post.

Ashoka said the BJP will fight against appeasement politics of the Congress and expose its attempts to rewrite Karnataka's history to suit its vote bank agenda.

Bioenergy board to table compressed biogas policy

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Bioenergy Development Board (KSBDB) is working on tabling a compressed biogas policy before the State Government for approval. The initiative could find place in the 2026-27 state budget.

Experts say the department took a cue from Indian Institute of Science (IISc) research on using agricultural residue to generate biogas as an alternative fuel. This comes at a time when the Central and State governments are also looking at using agricultural and grain-based residue for blending in fuels instead of sugarcane residue.

The department is going through policy documents of other states that have introduced the idea, including Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat and Andhra Pradesh, to pick the best and improve it further. Karnataka presently blends 20 per cent ethanol in petrol and diesel.

KSBDB is also looking to finalise its ethanol blending policy. As there is much scope for grain-based ethanol blending, alternatives like broken wheat, broken rice, rice residue, maize, jowar and other grains can be used, as certified by the Food Corporation of India.

Dayananda GN, project consultant of KSBDB, said there is a rise in grain-based and agricultural residue. "If all goes well, the policy will be finalised soon and be part of the 2026-27 state budget. Collection, aggregation and transportation challenges need to be addressed. We will suggest to the state government for production-linked incentive scheme to be implemented," official sources from KSBDB told TNIE.

Prof S Dasappa, Chair of the Interdisciplinary Centre for Energy Research and Faculty at the Centre for Sustainable Technologies, IISc, said, "The policies are now falling in place and challenges are being ironed out. So far, Karnataka has not been paying attention because of its thrust on renewable energy resources. Using agricultural residues is a good solution."

Illegal transport of urea to Kerala foiled at Bandipur checkpost

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

AMID reports of shortage of fertilisers in Karnataka, a major crackdown by officials from the Agriculture Department, with assistance from the police, resulted in the seizure of a truck illegally transporting urea fertiliser from Karnataka to neighboring Kerala. The incident took place at the Moolehole checkpost located within the Bandipur Tiger Reserve.

Officials intercepted a Kerala-registered truck near the checkpost. Upon inspection, they discovered approximately 300 bags of urea fertiliser said to be around, a few tonnes, being transported without proper authorisation. The truck was reportedly loaded with the fertiliser at a godown in Nanjangud and was on its way to Kerala.

Agriculture Officer Kiran Kumar confirmed the seizure and said a case has been registered against those involved, and the vehicle has been handed over to the police for further action. Assistant Director of Agriculture, Shashidhar, said due to the low cultivation of paddy and other irrigated crops in the taluk, there is no scarcity of urea for farmers here.

PAVATHI KHATHA

Karnataka govt to fast-track property records campaign

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH a large number of farmers in the state missing out on the Centre's benefits, especially the PM Kisan Samman Nidhi, Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda here on Monday asked the officers to speed up the campaign to provide property records.

"About 52 lakh lands are still in the names of deceased persons. Deputy Commissioners have been instructed to speed up the process of transferring all of them to the names of their current heirs through the 'pavathi khatha' campaign", he told reporters on the sidelines of the review of his department. "The Centre has issued an order not to provide PM Kisan, drip irrigation and machinery purchase subsidies to lands in the names of deceased persons. This will cause problems for farmers. Now we will go to the doorsteps of farmers and provide 'pavathi khatha'. So far, 2.30 lakh lands have been given 'pavathi khatha'. Also, it has been decided to give Rs. 6 for each case as an incentive to village accountants who make progress in the 'e-pavathi khatha' campaign", he said.

Laptops have been given to 4,000 VAs and the remaining will get them soon. Everyone is being trained on the use of e-office in order to digitize the department's work from grassroots, the minister said. He said that Village Administrative Officers (VAOs) are being given offices at Gram Panchayats.

"Out of the 8,357 village administration officers, office facilities have been provided to 7,405 VAOs in gram panchayats and the others will be given similar facilities soon, the minister said.

Simplified 'Nanna Bhoomi'

The minister said the 'Nanna Bhoomi' guarantee campaign has gained momentum. So far 1,09,000 lands have been measured in just 8 months. It will be done on 2 lakh lands by December, he said.

"The land that was granted to farmers four decades ago under the 'darkast' scheme has not been allotted till now. 'Nanna Bhoomi' campaign will give farmers land titles and documents for the land that was allotted earlier," he said.

Meanwhile, the minister said 1.62 lakh beneficiaries living in Hadi, Hatti, Tanda and Majare hamlets and villages will be given title deeds by converting them into revenue villages.

DCs told to manage water use in reservoirs

Krishna Byre Gowda urged the DCs to be vigilant about water management in reservoirs. He said that in the current year most of the districts have received normal rainfall. While there has been more rainfall in a couple of districts, there has been a little less rainfall than usual in six to seven districts.

It's unfortunate there is no end to honour killings: HC

Justice P Velmurugan says the truth behind such crimes not brought to the fore

R SIVAKUMAR @ Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Monday expressed anguish and concern over the increasing number of so-called honour killings in Tamil Nadu and how there appeared to be no end to such heinous crimes.

Justice P Velmurugan made the comments while transferring the investigation into a suspected case of murder of a Scheduled Caste student in the name of caste honour in Cuddalore district this May from the local police to the CID.

"So many cases of honour killing are reported in Tamil Nvadu but unfortunately there is no full stop. The honour killings are increasing day by day," he said, adding that the truth behind such crimes is not brought to the fore.

The petition to transfer the investigation was filed by M Murugesan, father of the deceased youngster M Jayasuriya, a B Com student from Arasakuli village in Cuddalore. The judge directed the police to hand over the case records immediately to the CB-CID, which has been ordered to hold a "fair investigation" to bring out the truth.

So many cases of honour killing are reported in Tamil Nvadu but unfortunately there is no full stop

—Justice P Velmurugan

Advocate A Arasuganesan, appearing for the petitioner, submitted that the deceased had fallen in love with a girl belonging to a dominant community. He alleged that on May 18, 2025, Jayasuriya was forcibly taken on a motorcycle by his collegemate, Praveen, and never returned. Although his father called him up several times, he responded only once saying that he was with Praveen and another person named Jeevan, the counsel said.

The counsel further informed the court that the girl belonged to the (Pudukkoorapettai) village where the horrific murders of Kannagi (who belonged to an MBC community) and Murugesan (who belonged an SC community) in the name of caste honour were committed in 2003.

However, government advocate appearing for the police submitted that investigations were still under way and the preliminary probe had found that it was a case of motor vehicle accident due to rash driving as the two-wheeler had hit a roadside electric pole when the trio was returning from Cuddalore to their village that night.

SC to hear TN plea against HC order tomorrow

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday agreed to hear on August 6 the appeal of Tamil Nadu government against the Madras High Court's interim order restraining it from using names and photographs of living personalities, former chief ministers or ideological leaders in government welfare schemes.

A division bench comprising CJI B R Gavai and Justice K Vinod Chandran agreed to hear the matter after senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing for TN government, submitted that the high court by its order asked it not to use names and photographs of present and former CMs in welfare schemes.

Rohtagi contended that it has been held by the top court in its various orders/verdicts that the name and pictures of CMs, former CMs and political leaders can be used in government welfare schemes.

"There is no bar on it," he said, submitting that the high court has passed an unusual order that no scheme of the government can have the name of the CM or any other political figure.

On July 31, a division bench of the Madras High Court comprising Chief Justice Manindra Mohan Shrivastava and Justice Sunder Mohan in its interim order said that while launching and operating government welfare schemes through various advertisements, the name of any living personality, photograph of any former CM/ideological leaders or party insignia/emblem/flag of DMK shall not be included.

Citing the judgments of the top court in State of Karnataka vs Common Cause and others, the high court said the SC had, however, clarified that publication of a photograph of the incumbent CM was permissible but use of photographs of ideological leaders or former CMs was prima facie against the directives of the apex court.

The high court had passed the order while hearing a PIL, filed by AIADMK MP C Ve Shanmugam, challenging the naming and promotion of the government's public outreach programme titled 'Ungaludan Stalin', alleging that it violated established norms.

27 NH projects on in K'taka with outlay of ₹31,749 crore

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

A total of 27 National Highway (NH) projects are presently underway across Karnataka, with a cumulative sanctioned expenditure of Rs 31,749 crore.

This information was disclosed in a written response by Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari to an unstarred question asked by Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP Kota Srinivas Poojary in the Lok Sabha on July 31.

Seeking elucidation on status of the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) projects in Karnataka, Poojary inquired about specifics of projects under consideration, ongoing initiatives, their timelines, sanctioned amounts, and funds expended thus far. In response, the ministry said feasibility studies and detailed project reports (DPRs) serve as the foundation for investment decisions, which are harmonised with PM Gati Shakti National Master Plan.

The reply further listed 27 major NHAI projects in Karnataka, covering a total length of 1,151 km of which 537 km have been completed so far. The total expenditure incurred stands at Rs 14,455 crore.

A key project, six-laning work on the Nelamangala-Tumakuru section (NH 48), sanctioned at Rs 2,032 crore has seen just 10.3 km completed out of 44.73 km. Another project that is plodding along is the construction of a six-lane new bridge across the Phalguni River near Kulur (NH 66), Mangaluru, where work hasn't progressed much despite Rs 27 crore already having been spent on foundation works. This bridge has a revised deadline of December 31, 2025.

K'TAKA HC ORDERS KSRTC UNIONS TO PUT STRIKE ON HOLD

Govt is free to do what it wants: Fed prez

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the Joint Action Committee of Trade Unions of Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) Employees to put on hold the proposed indefinite strike from August 5 for a day. This is to enable the court to know the outcome of ongoing negotiations between the representatives of the trade unions and Chief Minister Siddaramaiah.

A division bench of Justice KS Mudagal and Justice MGS Kamal passed the interim order after hearing the petition filed by Sunil J and four others through advocate Deeksha N Amrutesh, seeking the intervention of the high court to avoid inconvenience to commuters due to the proposed strike.

"If the entire public transport operation is stalled, the public is likely to be put to hardship. Therefore, it would be appropriate to grant interim stay till tomorrow, awaiting the outcome of negotiations with the government. Hence, the committee is directed to put on hold their proposed strike till August 5, the next date of hearing," the court said.

Meanwhile, the court orally observed that you (transport corporations) are paying passengers, but are not ready to pay employees. They are not going to strike suddenly, but they have issued notice, the court added.

Before this, the court was informed that after issuing notice of indefinite strike on July 15, conciliation meetings were held on July 28 and August 2. A meeting of the committee and CM is still going on.

Advocate for the petitioner submitted that commuters will be put to hardship if the strike is not called off or ongoing negotiations are not successful. Even after invoking the Essential Services Maintenance Act on July 14, the strike was announced. Hence, court has to intervene to ensure uninterrupted functioning of state-run transport corporations, she prayed.

ON Monday, Siddaramaiah chaired a high-level meeting with Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy, federation president HV Anantha Subbarao and JAC representatives at Vidhana Soudha. After the meeting that lasted for almost three hours, Subbarao said, "Siddaramaiah remained non-committal on the 25% wage hike revision from January 1, 2024. As against the clearance of 38 months' salary arrears, the CM has agreed to pay only 14 months. The stalemate continues and we are going ahead with the strike."

On the operation of private buses to counter the strike, Subbarao said the government is free to do whatever it wants. "Our RTC employees will stay at home and not report to work," he added.

When pointed out that the government had invoked ESMA (Essential Services Maintenance Act), cancelled leaves and taken action against those who took part in the strike in 2020, Subbarao said, "We have served a strike notice. Our employees will not budge to the government's threat. Any victimisation of transport employees will not be tolerated, and we will fight it out."

Alternative preparations

- The State Transport Department has prepared a list of private travel vehicles, including contract carriages, stage carriages, private service vehicles and maxi cabs
- Transport officials' data revealed that there are over 32,000 such private vehicles that can be pressed into service immediately, operating with government bus fares
- The government would request companies to enable 'work from home' so that private employees avoid travelling

JAC representatives alleged that Siddaramaiah projects himself as a socialist CM, but has not kept his word of fulfilling the demands of transport employees, who strive day and night for the success of the Congress government's 'Shakti' scheme, which offers free travel for women. They said they are open to talks anytime, but the strike will be called off only if their demands are met.

The CM, however, blamed the trade unions, saying their demands are unreasonable. "During my tenure as CM, I revised the salary in 2016 with a 12.5% hike.

In 2020, there was no hike due to the Covid. In 2023, the previous government hiked the salary by 15%.

The Srinivas Murthy committee recommended paying salary arrears from January 1, 2022 to February 28, 2023, which we have accepted.

But the demand for salary arrears for 38 months is unreasonable."

LAKHS OF PASSENGERS TO BE AFFECTED

Lakhs of people across Karnataka will be severely affected by the strike. The four RTCs -- KSRTC, BMTC, KKRTC and NWKRTC -- together have a fleet of over 24,000 with over 1.15 lakh employees.

The daily average total ridership of the four RTCs is over 1.23 crore with BMTC carrying nearly 40 lakh, followed by KSRTC with 38 lakh. Private operators were not fully ready to ply their vehicles on Tuesday and were hoping that JAC will postpone the strike by a day honouring the High Court order.

This will leave passengers with no commute options, especially outside Bengaluru.

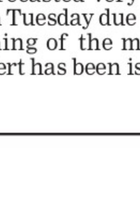
Koppal youth bludgeoned to death over affair

Koppal : A youth was brutally hacked to death on the main road of Koppal town on Sunday over an alleged love affair between him and a girl from another community. The deceased is Gavidsiddappa Nayak (27), who was in love with a girl named Bhanu. Bhanu's cousin Sadiq Kolkar, along with three other youth, attacked Gavisiddappa in ward number 3 with two machetes on his neck and head, killing him on the spot. Police have filed a case under Section 103(1) BNS 20223, SC-ST Act 1989. Gavisiddappa and Bhanu first met at Agro company where they were employed. Both fell in love and planned to elope as the elders of their families objected to their relationship. After this issue, Bhanu's marriage was fixed with Sadiq who threatened Gavisiddappa to stay away from her, but he did not. The incident haapened around 8.15 pm. ENS

Neha murder case: Court denies bail to accused

Hubballi: IN a major development, the First Additional and District Session Court in Hubballi rejected the bail plea of Fayaz Khondunaik, who is accused of killing Neha Hiremath. Neha, 23, a student at BVB College in Hubballi, died after she was stabbed multiple times allegedly by Fayaz. He was her classmate and the incident took place on the BVB college campus on April 18, 2024. On Monday, his bail plea came before the court. After hearing the lawyers of both parties, the court rejected the bail plea and set a date for the next hearing on August 6. This judgment has brought some satisfaction among Neha's family members and the people who have been demanding justice for Neha. Speaking to TNIE, Niranjan Hiremath, Neha's father, said the cancellation of bail is the first step of justice for his daughter. ENS

Wife among four held for engineer's murder



Belagavi: A shocking act of violence has disrupted the peace in Khanapur, Belagavi district, where 32-year-old engineer Suresh Timanna Bandiva-dder was fatally stabbed during a community meeting at the Shani-Maruti Temple in the Gandhi Nagar. The brutal incident occurred around 4 pm on Sunday and has left the local community in shock. Suresh, originally from Tegur in Dharwad district, had been living in Khanapur with his wife Sneha Bandivadder (27) and their two young children. He was employed as an engineer at a private company in Belagavi. The fatal altercation took during the meeting to address personal dispute between Suresh and Anil (Yashwant) Bandivadder (25), who was allegedly involved in an illicit affair. ENS

GAMBHIR & GILL MUST FIND BETTER BALANCE TO SQUARE THE PITCH

IN the end, India won at the London Oval by a whisker to level the series 2-2. But the fact that it could have gone either way till the second-last ball speaks volumes of the two talented, idiosyncratic sides. With the high drama and intense emotions the Test series generated, one can safely say the romance of the longest format has been rekindled. Every one of the five Tests stretched to five days and the narrative swung both ways during all of them. Nothing is more symbolic than the way India clawed back into the last Test and won. More than anything else, the young side must take heart in the way they bounced back from the wire while showing immense poise. In his first series as captain, Shubman Gill made an indelible mark that will help him gain respect from his team. He showed temerity to hold English bowlers at bay on their own pitches, emerging as the highest run-getter in the series. Mohammed Siraj stepped out of the shadow of the mercurial Jasprit Bumrah, spearheading the attack in the senior's absence. Akash Deep and Prasidh Krishna played the perfect foil.

Yet, long after the celebrations are over and the Indian management has gone through the notes, they should be a bit disappointed. The players gave it all on the field, but when it came to picking the playing 11, the team management seemed to lack a plan. They had three batters—Gill, K L Rahul and Ravindra Jadeja—having the series of their lifetimes. They had Bumrah for three Tests and Siraj delivering whenever needed. They had promising talent in Yashasvi Jaiswal, Washington Sundar and B Sai Sudharsan. But what Gautam Gambhir and Gill did not do is give their attack the luxury of another frontline bowler. They made conservative choices, picking an extra batter time and again. It makes one wonder whether India lost the chance to win a series in England. Smarter choice of pacers would have allowed them to manage the workload. Gill and Gambhir must take a hard look and find the best combination for India to succeed in all conditions at home or abroad. After the lows of the New Zealand and Australia series, this is a chance for the young team to begin a new chapter.

STOP POLITICS OVER USE OF BANGLA ACROSS INDIA

AN inspector at Delhi's Lodhi Colony police station has caused a stir by requesting the West Bengal state guest house in the national capital to provide a translator for "texts written in Bangladeshi". In a more harmonious era, the matter could have been set aside with a guffaw over the inspector's own linguistic limitations. But at a time Bangla speakers are being rounded up in various BJP-ruled states and deported on mere suspicion of being illegal immigrants, calling Bangla the "Bangladeshi national language" in an official letter cuts deeply. The case for which a translator's services were sought is itself about eight people suspected of being illegal immigrants.

It's a travesty that someone writing an official letter does not know the name of the country's second largest language. Bangla is not only one of the 22 official languages enshrined in the Constitution's Eighth Schedule; last year, the Union government also listed it as one of the country's 11 classical languages, whose criteria include high antiquity, textual heritage and original tradition. Rabindranath Tagore not only wrote the national anthems of India and Bangladesh, but he also inspired Sri Lanka's.

The graver concern is over weaponisation of language in a country where most states were delineated by them. In June, Delhi University clarified that the listing of 'Muslim' as a language in place of Urdu in an admission form was a clerical error. Even if we consider the university clerk and police inspector's characterisations as slips of the tongue, they betray a malaise being fomented in society. Illegal immigration across India's longest international border is not new—some scholars have termed it the result of a 'partition that never ended'. The issue has also been politicised for decades. But it's the conflation of Bangla with illegal immigration across the country that makes it harmful in the current context. The government has had to repatriate families forcibly pushed into Bangladesh after they were proven to be Indian nationals.

In an essay written in 1883, the year after he published Anandamath—the novel that includes 'Vande Mataram', India's national song—Bankim Chandra Chattopadhyay strongly advised against politicising language and its usage. We would do well to heed the advice that, unfortunately, becomes relevant every now and then in a nation that claims to be 'one family'.

QUICK TAKE

A HIMALAYAN CHALLENGE

THE Supreme Court expressed the anguish felt by a large number of Indians when it stated, "The day is not far when the entire state of Himachal Pradesh may vanish." Justices J B Pardiwala and R Mahadevan made the observation while hearing a hotel group's challenge to building restrictions in the state's green zones. The state government has counted losses amounting to ₹1,539 crore during this monsoon alone—most of it attributable to unchecked constructions and inadequate upkeep. Given this, Mussoorie's recent decision to insist on visitors registering beforehand should be emulated across the country's hill stations. They should also consider a tourism tax that can be used to pay for keeping these fragile ecologies clean and green.

The camaraderie between American and Pakistani militaries is a Cold War legacy that gets in the way of India-US relations. But a genuine India-US partnership is a necessity

A COLDNESS CARRIED FROM THE COLD WAR

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps; Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

IT was in 1991 that India-US relations began to acquire a strategic shape. With the Cold War concluded and the Soviet Union reduced to a diminished Russia, the US found itself in an unfamiliar role—as a lone superpower with global responsibilities. It recognised the dangers of complacency in victory and quickly began pivoting from its Atlantic preoccupations to the Asia Pacific, anticipating a new set of challengers.

The growing rise of China, while facilitated in earlier decades by the US itself, had begun to look less like an opportunity and more like a coming storm. India, geographically positioned next to China, democratically stable and increasingly open to global markets, became a natural component of this new architecture—a potential US partner.

Yet, for much of its early strategic phase, the India-US relationship remained cautiously transactional. Military-to-military ties grew at a measured pace, beginning with the Malabar exercises in 1992. Somehow, the trust deficit remained a Cold War legacy. The 1998 Pokhran nuclear tests were a shock to Washington and created an immediate rift. But this proved temporary. President George W Bush's outreach, culminating in the landmark civil nuclear deal, and external affairs minister Pranab Mukherjee's 2005 speech at RAND Corporation marked a turning point. India, at that point, became a more serious US partner.

The devil in the relationship remained Pakistan. The US equivocation on Pakistan's role in cross-border terrorism has been one of the most vexing elements of this evolving relationship. Despite overwhelming evidence of Pakistan's nurturing of terror networks, Washington has not held Islamabad to account. It has always had the leverage—economic, diplomatic and military—but rarely used it. The oft-cited reason is strategic: an overstated fear of pushing Pakistan further into China's embrace. In reality, it is also an emotional and historical inertia rooted in the Cold War, SEATO, CENTO and years of military camaraderie.

This is not speculative. I speak from personal experience, having undergone a military course in the US with officers from the Pakistan Army in attendance, too. The bond between the American and Pakistani militaries is real, deep and difficult to dislodge. They understand each other and work together with comfort. One could argue that part of this stems from shared Cold War experiences or joint operations like the one in Somalia in 1994, when Pakistani troops defended the US embassy in Mogadishu. What is rarely acknowledged, however, is that the eventual securing of the embassy was only possible because a hurriedly assembled Indian half-squadron of tanks relieved the Pakistani armour at the Mogadishu airfield. That moment of quiet Indian support remains under-acknowledged.

SOURAV ROY

The structural flaw in India-US relations has always been that it remains seen through a binary lens—India and Pakistan—as if American favour must always be distributed evenly. For India-US relations to be truly transformational, they must escape this dyad. India and the US have too much at stake in technology, commerce, maritime security, climate and global governance to be held hostage to the remnants of a 20th-century rivalry.

This brings us to the present dynamics under Donald Trump. India had initially expected Trump to be both pragmatic and sympathetic to its concerns. His public embrace of the Indo-Pacific construct, his emphasis on strong borders and sovereignty, and his apparent frustration with Pakistan's duplicity seemed like the perfect alignment.

Indeed, during his first term, Trump's approach was more empathetic. Despite the shadow of the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act, the US refrained from sanctioning India over the S400 missile deal with Russia. Similarly, there was leniency on oil imports from Russia, even as global pressure mounted. External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has made India's position abundantly clear—that the government's primary responsibility is ensuring energy security for its citizens and national interest would guide decision-making.

The tone of accommodation seems to have changed. Trump's recent frustration appears to stem from India's firm stance on key issues, most notably Operation Sindoor. The Trump camp's insinuation that the India-Pakistan ceasefire was the result of his persuasion was swiftly and correctly rejected by India. This assertion—factually incorrect and diplomatically presumptuous—cut across the grain of Indian strategic autonomy. India had initiated Operation Sindoor in response to the Pahalgam massacre and concluded it on its own terms. It did not, and would not, allow external mediation to shape decisions about national security.

That rejection of Trump's narrative seems to have left a mark. It is no coincidence that in the weeks that followed, Washington signalled a shift—through renewed tariffs, subtle warnings of sanctions, and even gestures like the highly publicised lunch involving Pakistan's army chief General Asim Munir. There is also an emerging narrative that Pakistan has permitted the US to use its airspace and, possibly, bases in any contingency involving Iran. If that assessment holds, Trump may now be leaning on Islamabad once more, seeing more compliance there than from India. But such a perception is strategically flawed.

India is not a nation to be managed through coercion or conditional friendship. Its rise on the global stage is not dependent on American affirmation, even though alignment with the US remains desirable and necessary in many spheres. The US must recognise that a truly capable partner like India will, and must, act independently. The more Washington respects that, the stronger the partnership will be.

Trump's transactionalism—his need to claim credit, to convert strategic engagement into personal legacy—runs contrary to India's centuries-tested approach of silent perseverance and dignified resistance. It has seen many like it in the past—from the cold estrangement after Pokhran to the sanctions of the early 2000s. What matters now is that India holds its ground, continues dialogue, and keeps faith in the long arc of its diplomatic strategy.

The friendship between India and the US is one of shared opportunity. But to reach its full potential, it must shed the baggage of older assumptions. A future built on equality, respect, and genuine understanding is not utopian—it is necessary. But it will not arrive through threats, tariffs, or credit claims. It will arrive when the conditions of friendship are taken as a strategic necessity without conditionalities.

WAY TO CLEAN OUR CLOGGED CITIES

ADEEL KHAN
Programme Associate at the Council on Energy, Environment and Water

PRIYANKA SINGH
Programme Lead at the Council on Energy, Environment and Water

WITH plastic waste clogging the drains, just a pre-monsoon shower was enough to flood parts of Mumbai a few weeks ago, with plastic waste often clogging the drains. This is not an isolated incident. Across Indian cities, growing waste is a major concern and its poor management is becoming an urban emergency. Urban India now produces over 62 million tonnes of solid waste each year, a figure projected to rise to 165 million tonnes by 2030.

The growing gap between waste generation and its proper management threatens to disrupt civic services and turn open burning into a major urban issue. With more than 877 million people expected to live in Indian cities by 2050, managing waste effectively is critical to building resilient and healthy cities.

While flagship initiatives like the Swachh Bharat Mission have pushed waste treatment from 18 percent in 2014 to 55 percent in 2021, systemic gaps still persist. Its second phase envisions 'garbage-free cities' by eliminating open dumping, ensuring 100 percent scientific treatment and remediating legacy waste from existing dumpsites. Cities like Indore, Navi Mumbai and Surat are now setting national benchmarks by aligning with these targets through sustained leadership, citizen participation and robust infrastructure. Analysis by the Council on Energy, Environment and Water (CEEW) of well-performing cities under the Swachh Survekshan survey highlights the importance of diagnosing the root causes of persistent urban waste challenges. We recommend four interventions.

First, urban local bodies (ULB) must urgently develop clear waste reduction strategies and set measurable targets. Reducing garbage at the source is among the most effective ways to manage the growing burden of urban waste. Take Pune, for example—it has committed to a 25 percent reduction in waste by 2025 (compared to 2017 levels) and incentivises citizens through measures such as a 10 percent property tax rebate for green practices like home composting. In Delhi, the municipal corporation is developing zero-waste institutions and also recognising them by providing awards.

Such initiatives are not just symbolic. When targets are scaled across residential societies, offices, and institutions, they can shift public behaviour and build momentum for systemic change. But such a change won't take root without citizen buy-in. ULBs must take the lead in creating platforms that empower people to act—through grievance portals, incentives, accessible infrastructure and sustained awareness campaigns.

Second, ensure at least four-way segregation across the entire waste supply chain. Proper segregation—separating dry, wet, domestic hazardous and sanitary waste—is foundational and is mandated under India's Solid Waste Management Rules. But implementation remains a big hurdle. Without consistent segregation throughout the entire supply chain—from households to waste processing sites—resource recovery remains inefficient and hazardous. Cities are struggling to ensure segregation levels, with average segregation in ULBs standing at 33 percent. But there are shoots of hope. Delhi, in its latest clean air action plan, has set a target of achieving 85 percent segregation. Some of the cleanest cities, like Indore, achieved over 98 percent segregation levels by combining public engagement with enforcement, infrastructure and tech-enabled monitoring. The ULBs must monitor ward-level data and intervene swiftly where systems break down. Segregation success must become a point of civic pride not a bureaucratic checkbox.

AFP

Urban India is tipping into a major crisis with the gap between waste generation and its proper management widening. We should remember that when our cities get clogged even with short spells of rain. While initiatives like Swachh Bharat have made some progress, significant systemic issues persist

Third, draw up plans to handle recovered and inert waste after bioremediation. This shouldn't lead to dumpsites. Under the second phase of the Swachh Bharat Mission, over 2,400 dumpsites are slated for remediation, covering 15,000 acres and 2,300 lakh tonnes of legacy waste across the country. Cities need to expedite the remediation process to meet the target by the end of 2026 and must ensure recovered material is safe, traceable, and put to productive use. Ahmedabad offers a model—its municipal corporation uses inert material for road construction and as fuel in nearby cement plants. Treating ongoing waste scientifically is equally essential to prevent the creation of new dump sites while remediating the legacy waste. Recent CEEW analysis estimates converting organic waste into compressed biogas could generate an annual economic value of ₹2,800 crore, create around 49,000 jobs by 2030, and cut 44 million tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent.

Fourth, leverage India's digital infrastructure to monitor waste management and build trust. The Smart Cities Mission has equipped 100 cities with Integrated Command and Control Centres, which can monitor garbage vulnerable points, optimise collection, track vehicles, and flag fire hazards at treatment facilities and dump sites. Citizen-facing platforms like the Swachhata app and MCD 311 allow the reporting of grievances like illegal garbage dumping, missed pickups, and citizen feedback on local waste services. They must be actively promoted and grievances must be resolved in a timely and transparent manner.

Urban waste is not just a logistical problem—it's a political and social one.For "garbage-free" cities, we must go beyond surface-level fixes. The ULBs must look deeper and focus on upstream waste reduction and downstream management in tandem. Resident welfare associations, faith leaders, businesses, lawmakers and citizens must all play their part.

● TMC says EC has no authority to conduct inquiries into citizenship

'SIR is match-fixing, TMC will take to the streets in protest'

THE Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls is "match fixing", TMC Rajya Sabha MP Sushmita Dev tells Parvez Sultan in an interview. She claims that it is a politically motivated attempt to tamper with voter rolls. She warns that if the process is initiated in West Bengal, the Trinamool Congress will take to the streets in mass protest. Excerpts:

How does the TMC view the SIR exercise in Bihar?
The Election Commission has every right to review a voter's list, removing names of the deceased or those who have relocated. But how they are doing it makes it unconstitutional and an exclusionary exercise. The EC suddenly started it on short notice, without any discussion with any political party. The EC is seeking documents from three time periods: pre-1987, 1987–2004, and post-2004.

If you look at Section 3 of the Citizenship Act 1955, the entire 1987-2004 period has been lifted from the Citizenship Act. The EC cannot enter into an inquiry on whether a person is a citizen or not. It suggests the poll panel is overstepping its mandate by entering the domain of citizenship verification. Hence, the TMC is certain this is a backdoor National Register of Citizens exercise to exclude voters under the guise of a routine revision. The timing of the exercise, after 2024 polls also raises suspicion. It is a motivated move triggered by the BJP's drop in support.

What are your concerns regarding this process in West Bengal?
Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee remains one of the strongest challengers to the BJP. Unable to counter her grassroots strength, the BJP is resorting to what Abhishek Banerjee calls a "silent intensive rigging" (SIR) through voter list manipulation. They can't beat our organisational strength. So they are going to en masse exclude people to tamper with the election result.

Over 11,000 voters were removed from Bihar's list as "untraceable" on July 22, which mysteriously jumped to over one lakh the very next day. All this, even as the EC claims it will help people submit documents between August 1 and September 1. They are abusing laws to turn it into an exclusionary exercise. I have every reason to believe that they have already done this exercise, the BJP as a party, and now they are working backwards through the EC. This is match-fixing.

Mamata Banerjee said the SIR would not be allowed in Bengal. Can the party or a state government stop such an exercise?
The TMC has already moved Supreme Court. Mamata Banerjee will not remain silent as genuine citizens are disenfranchised. She has more workers per booth than the Booth Level Officers, and they will be on the ground to resist any unjust exclusion. She won't hesitate to take to the streets if needed.

EC recently asked for delinking the office of the Chief Electoral Officer from the West Bengal government for autonomy...
The Trinamool Congress opposes this demand because it sees it as a strategic attempt to bypass state oversight and weaken the role of the elected state government in the electoral process. If this is not a predetermined exercise to tamper with and manipulate the West Bengal elections, then why are you worried?

There have been reports of attacks on Bengali-speaking migrant workers in other states. Is TMC getting support from INDIA bloc partners on this?
For us, the real issue isn't whether the INDIA bloc is supporting us or not. The core concern is that Mamata Banerjee has a constitutional and moral responsibility to protect genuine citizens of her state. We have been raising this issue in Parliament every single day. We have been asking for a debate. But the Union government is saying, 'This is not its business... The Election Commission is doing it.'

● BJP says Didi has made Bengal epicentre of anarchy and infiltration

'SIR need of the hour, else state will become West Bangladesh'

THE Special Intensive Revision (SIR) is the need of the hour in West Bengal; otherwise the state will become West Bangladesh," West Bengal BJP chief and Rajya Sabha MP Samik Bhattacharya tells Rajesh Kumar Thakur in an interview. Genuine natives of the state of all castes and religions have "nothing to fear" from the SIR, he assures. Excerpts:

After Bihar, it's perhaps West Bengal's turn to undergo the SIR, ahead of the 2026 Assembly election. Why is it needed there?
It is needed to filter illegally enrolled voters—who migrated from other places, mostly from Bangladesh through the porous Indo-Bangladesh border—and address electoral malpractices the ruling Trinamool Congress has carried out for long. The SIR will take place in West Bengal as it has become the need of the hour; otherwise, the state will become West Bangladesh. The state is clamouring for the SIR, as it has always followed democratic values and practices. Genuine people here, irrespective of their caste and creed, want it. I assure the people of even Indian minorities that their original rights of voting will remain as secure as they need to be.

How prepared is the BJP ahead of the election when the Opposition, including TMC, has called the SIR process anti-democratic?
Bengal is in a total mess due to TMC misgovernance. It only engages in politics of appeasement—not politics of progress, peace, and prosperity. The BJP has emerged as the viable and last option for people who are fed up with the tyranny of TMC, corruption, and crime. Violence has become a state-sponsored occurrence. We are reaching out to people, and they want change, change, and only change for the welfare of Bengal.

The TMC has made Bengal the epicentre of anarchy and infiltration across the border as part of its appeasement politics. Whenever Bangladesh unleashes atrocities on Hindus, people of a particular community in many bordering areas celebrate. But the days are coming closer when, through a BJP government, Bengal will deport those who have infiltrated from across the border.

If voted to power, how will the BJP tackle infiltration?
Our government will set an example of good governance, identifying infiltrators, Rohingyas, and others who have intruded across the porous Indo-Bangla borders, and deport them in a mission-mode approach.

Do you believe SIR will identify illegally enrolled voters?
Yes, definitely. It will help clean the system. Those who claim to be natives of this blessed soil of Bengal will have no problem undergoing the SIR and supporting it. I can say that consolidation of the majority community in West Bengal has already taken place, and the kind of medieval-era violence we see now under TMC will no longer be tolerated.

TMC alleges that the NDA is blocking development funds for the state. Your response?
No investment has come into the state under TMC's rule. Violence, supported by one particular community under TMC, has become dominant. The Centre has never given West Bengal step-motherly treatment. Look at the massive allocation of funds for railways and other sectors. But due to rampant corruption in the TMC, Bengal has been held back from its development journey.

What are the BJP's core issues in the 2026 election?
Corruption, crime, appeasement, anarchy, and governance failure—especially in dealing with infiltration—are the key issues.

Minorities are said to be afraid of the BJP coming to power...
The BJP always stands by Indian Muslims the way it stands with Hindus and others. I say that no one dares to touch even a hair of the Hindus in West Bengal, the Hindu refugees, and the real Indian Muslims.

Amid Oppn protest, govt says it will be forced to push bills

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

AS the stalemate over Bihar SIR continues to paralyse Parliament proceedings, the government on Monday said that it will be forced to press for the passage of crucial bills if the Opposition parties don't budge from their adamant position. The Speaker cited the precedent of former speaker Balram Jakhar, who turned down a demand for a discussion in the House on the Election Commission's functioning, given that the poll panel is conceived as an independent entity.

Despite the opposition suggesting that if the government is unwilling to discuss SIR, discussions can be had on electoral reforms, voter deletion etc, the government refused to concede to the demand.

Later, speaking to reporters, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju insisted that the government wants a thorough discussion in Parliament over its bills but will be compelled to push for their passage from Tuesday in "national interest" as the proposed legislations are important for governance.

The govt wants a discussion in Parliament over its bills but will be compelled to push for their passage from Tuesday in "national interest" as the proposed legislation are important for governance.

Kiren Rijiju, PAM

Hitting out at the opposition parties, he said that they had agreed to a two-day discussion over the National Sports Governance Bill and National Anti-Doping (Amendment) Bill, both of which were scheduled to be taken up together for consideration and passage in the Lok Sabha on Monday, but they disrupted proceedings.

The minister, however, made it clear that a debate on SIR cannot take place in Parliament as the exercise is part of the Election Commission's administrative action and functioning. Parliament can discuss electoral reforms but not the EC's functioning, he said, adding that the poll watchdog has carried out SIR earlier as well.

Speaking to this paper, Congress chief whip Manickam Tagore said that the government has shut doors for the opposition on the issue.

He asserted that the Law Minister and Parliamentary Affairs Minister must answer why the government is blocking discussion on SIR, an issue directly linked to millions of Indian citizens' right to vote.He pointed out that Parliament has always exercised oversight on Constitutional Bodies.

He said that Parliament has debated issues such as electoral bonds, voter ID–Aadhaar Linking, appointment of Election Commissioners, Model Code of Conduct, role of CAG after the 2G report, Conduct of UPSC exams and Reports of NHRC, but no Speaker stopped that.

HOUSE STRATEGY

INDIA bloc to firm up House plan on Aug 7...

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AS the row over the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) issue in Bihar escalates, the Opposition INDIA bloc leaders are set to hold a dinner meeting on Thursday to firm up future strategy over the issue. Congress general secretary (Organisation) K C Venugopal said, "There we will be a gathering in Delhi on August 7. INDIA alliance leaders will be there".

The dinner meeting will be hosted by Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi, said sources. Gandhi is likely to hold a press conference in Delhi on August 6, in which he may reveal evidence against the Election Commission (EC) on electoral malpractices during the 2024 Lok Sabha election and Maharashtra assembly election, a source said.

Comparing the findings to an "atom bomb", he had claimed that it will be revealed soon. The Congress may discuss its findings with other parties in the Thursday meeting.

The meeting will be attended by SP chief Akhilesh Yadav and RJD chief Tejashwi Yadav among others. Confirming the attendance of Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray, party leader and Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut said that Gandhi has specially invited Thackeray for the meeting.

As the election for the post of Vice President has been scheduled for September 9, the leaders will also discuss a joint candidate. The opposition parties are also planning to take out a march to the office of the EC on August 8.

Didi rejigs party team

TMC chief Mamata Banerjee on Monday named Abhishek Banerjee as the party leader in the Lok Sabha, replacing veteran MP Sudip Bandyopadhyay. Confirming the development in the evening in a post on X, Banerjee said that she convened a virtual meeting today with all AITC MPs from both the Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha after a which a unanimous decision was taken to make Abhishek the leader of party in Lok Sabha.

... meanwhile, NDA meet on Aug 5 to counter Oppn

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AMID speculation that the Narendra Modi government is likely to spring surprises by taking some major and unexpected decisions, the NDA parliamentary party will meet on Tuesday. The prime minister is expected to address the MPs.

The NDA MPs will felicitate Modi on the occasion for the success of Operation Sindoor in particular, and other achievements. The meeting will continue, allowing NDA leaders to speak. Previously, at NDA parliamentary meetings, the Prime Minister has addressed MPs.

Following a wider discussion on several issues, the PM is expected to address the gathering. Meanwhile, a day after Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah separately called on President Droupadi Murmu, speculation continued on Monday regarding a potential decision to restore the statehood of Jammu and Kashmir.

The buzz followed closely on the heels of Modi's praise for the visit of J&K Chief Minister Omar Abdullah to the Statue of Unity in Kevadia, Gujarat. "There seems to be something big taking shape in the government. It is being speculated that the Modi government may decide on restoration of statehood to J&K on August 5—the day Article 370 was abrogated," remarked several, including some with political ties to the Saffron party.

The speculation gained further traction after several journalists posted cryptic updates on their social media accounts, hinting at the possibility of statehood being restored. However, no senior minister has made any direct comment.

When asked by the media, most chose to avoid the topic, often offering little more than a knowing, mysterious smile. "We think the NDA MPs will felicitate PM on the grand success of Operation Sindoor and may thereafter engage in some discussion. It is likely that PM will address the NDA meeting," remarked a senior NDA leader.

Health takes centre stage at plastic treaty talks

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Geneva

AS world leaders, negotiators, and scientists converge in Geneva from August 5-14 for what could be the final round of talks on the Global Plastics Treaty, a new report published by The Lancet has put health at the heart of the plastics debate.

The report, entitled 'The Lancet Countdown on Health and Plastics', describes plastic pollution as a "grave, growing, and under-recognised danger to human and planetary health," and presents the most comprehensive assessment of the links between plastics and health across the full life cycle of plastic — from extraction and production to use and disposal.

This health framing could become a decisive force in Geneva, as countries struggle to align on contentious issues like capping plastic production, chemical bans, and funding mechanisms. The Lancet report warns that plastic chemicals and microplastics now infiltrate every stage of human life — from fetal development to old age — and disproportionately harm vulnerable populations, including infants, pregnant women, workers, and fenceline communities. The annual health-related economic losses associated with plastics are now estimated at over $1.5 trillion globally.

Without steps, emissions may triple by 2050: Study

The report also flags the escalating climate threat of plastics. In 2020, plastic production accounted for an estimated 2.45 gigatonnes of CO_2 equivalent emissions, or nearly 5% of global industrial emissions, largely driven by coal and fracked gas. Without intervention, these emissions could triple by 2050, exacerbating health impacts through heatwaves, floods, and vector-borne diseases.

Coinciding with the treaty negotiations, the Countdown on Health and Plastics is being launched as an independent global monitoring system, inspired by the successful Lancet Countdown on Climate Change. It will track a suite of scientifically robust indicators across four domains: plastic production and emissions, exposures, health impacts, and policy.

Prof Joacim Rocklöv, co-chair of the new Countdown, noted, "This new Countdown will ensure that health remains at the centre of the plastics pollution conversation, just as we have seen happen in climate negotiations post-COP28 in Dubai."

With accelerating plastic production — from just 2 million tonnes in 1950 to 475 Mt in 2022, with projections nearing 1,200 Mt by 2060, Geneva talks are seen as a last chance to reverse some of the damage caused. Shockingly, over 8 billion tonnes of plastic waste now pollute the environment, with less than 10% ever recycled.

At the Gallifrey Foundation pre-summit event, Panama's Juan Carlos Monterrey Gomez warned delegates of the risk of failure: "Will we look back in 30 years, seeing plastic production triple, and realise we missed our last best chance?"

One of the most polarising issues on the table is whether the treaty should impose a global cap on virgin plastic production. While Norway's Torbjørn Graff Hugo argued against such a measure as a "blunt instrument," environmentalists like Amy Youngman of the Environmental Investigation Agency counter, "You can't mop the floor if the tap is still running."

'Have some respect for the Army': SC affirms CBI probe into Col assault case

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday deplored the conduct of the Punjab police officers accused of assaulting a Colonel over a parking dispute, reminding the police personnel that they are "sleeping peacefully" at home because Army personnel are serving at the border.

"Have some respect for Army people. You are sleeping peacefully in your house because that man is serving at the border at -40 degrees," the apex court observed, dismissing a special leave petition filed by the Punjab police challenging the Punjab and Haryana High Court's order transferring the probe into the matter from the police to the CBI. The HC had observed at the time that there was no material to show that the investigation was being conducted in a fair manner. A bench of SC Justices Sanjay Kumar and Satish Chandra Sharma noted that the court had passed a "well-reasoned" order.

The incident involving Colonel Pushpinder Singh Bath and his son reportedly took place on the intervening night of March 13 and 14 this year when they were eating at a roadside dhaba (eatery) in Patiala. Col Bath, the complainant, has accused 12 Punjab Police personnel of assaulting him and his son for refusing to move their car while having a meal. He has also alleged a delay in the registration of an FIR. Taking a serious view of lapses on the part of the police, the court asked, "An eight-day delay in lodging an FIR?"

The top court further stressed that it was not willing to accept any kind of "lawlessness". "We are going to dismiss this appeal with heavy costs. Let the CBI look into this. They (Army) go and defend you, and they come back wrapped in a national flag," Justice Sharma added.

July 28, 1993: Three more abducted individuals were reportedly killed in a second fake encounter

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A special CBI court in Mohali on Monday sentenced five retired Punjab Police officials, including a former SSP and a DSP, to life imprisonment in a 32-year-old fake encounter case. In 1993, seven youths of Rani Willa village in Tarn Taran district of the state were killed, four of whom were Special Police Officers (SPOs).

Those who have been given life imprisonment include: Former SSP Bhupinderjit Singh (61), former DSP Davinder Singh (58), former inspector Suba Singh (83), ASIs Gulabarg Singh (72), and Raghbir Singh (63). Sarabjit Singh Verka, counsel for the victim families, said, "The court today handed down life imprisonment to all the five convicts and imposed a collective penalty of ₹17.50 lakh, which will be given as compensation to the families of the deceased."

CBI counsel Anmol Narang said that policemen had killed their colleagues in two encounters on the suspicion of a robbery and then cremated their bodies as unknown and unclaimed. "The seven victims, all in the age group of 20 to 25 years, were closely related to each other," he added.

On Friday, the court found them guilty of criminal conspiracy, murder, destruction of evidence and forgery under various sections of the IPC.

The CBI had registered the case in 1999 based on a statement by Narinder Kaur, wife of SPO Shinder Singh, whose body had been cremated as unclaimed.

Investigation revealed that a police party, led by the then SHO of Sarhali Gurdev Singh (who died during the course of trial), forcibly picked up SPOs

Shinder Singh, Desa Singh, Sukhdev Singh and two others, Balkar Singh alias Bobby and Daljit Singh from the house of a government contractor Joginder Singh, where they were on duty as gunmen on June 27, 1993.

They were kept illegally and tortured at the police station to extract confessions regarding their involvement in a robbery at Sangatpura village and only Daljit Singh was let off.

On July 2, 1993, a case was registered at Sarhali police claiming that the three SPOs had absconded along with arms issued to them. Later in two fake encounters --On July 12 and 28, all the seven youths were killed.

Kulgam gunfight enters 4th day; second-longest op in two years

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THERE is no letup in the din of loud explosions and bursts of gunfire in the dense forests of Akhal in J&K's Kulgam district as the gunfight between terrorists and forces entered its fourth day on Monday, marking the second-longest encounter in the Valley in two years.

A security official said drones, unmanned aerial vehicles and Army helicopters have been hovering over the area for aerial surveillance to pinpoint the exact location of the terrorists. According to some sources, the terrorists had made hideouts in the dense forests, and the forces are trying to locate them. Explosive devices have been dropped on the suspected hideouts, causing extensive damage to them.

Sources privy to the matter said that two terrorists have been killed in the gunfight that erupted on Friday after Army, police and CRPF personnel launched a joint search operation in the forests based on inputs about the presence of a group of Lashkar-e-Taiba members. Meanwhile, three Army men injured in the gunfight are currently undergoing treatment.

"The operation may be prolonged as the forces are moving cautiously to avoid casualties and to dry up the terrorists' ammunition," a source said.

Mukhtar Ansari's younger son arrested over forged papers from Lucknow

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

IN a late-Sunday night operation, UP police arrested Umar Ansari, the younger son of late gangster-turned-politician Mukhtar Ansari, from the Darulshafa MLA residential complex in the city.

The arrest was made by Ghazipur police which conducted a raid at the residence of former Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party (SBSP) MLA Abbas Ansari after tracking Umar's location there.

The police action against Umar Ansari came over charges of forgery and filing a fraudulent petition in court seeking release of a property registered in the name of his mother Afshan Ansari who is wanted in a number of cases and has been evading arrest. Afshan Ansari carries a reward of ₹1 lakh on her arrest from Ghazipur and Mau police.

The property in question was seized under the Gangster Act. The petition filed by Umar Ansari was purportedly submitted in the name of his mother.Police alleged Umar had used forged signatures of his mother Afshan Ansari to support the plea. Lawyer Liaquat Ali, who represented the case, had claimed in court that Afshan had personally signed the documents and sent them via Umar.

However, upon scrutiny by the state government counsel, the signatures on the documents did not match with Afshan Ansari signatures in previous records. This raised suspicion, particularly because Afshan has been declared a fugitive and cannot appear before court directly. A lookout notice has also been issued against her.

Investigators concluded that Umar, in collusion with his lawyer, attempted to mislead the court and tamper with judicial proceedings through forged documents — prompting the registration of a case under relevant sections of the IPC.

Meanwhile, Abbas Ansari, the elder son of the late legislator Mukhtar was convicted in a hate speech case and awarded two-years imprisonment. He is presently out on bail.

A police chargesheet is expected soon, and officials have indicated that the case could lead to serious legal consequences, including recommendations for stricter judicial action against Umar.

Regionalism dictates BJP stance on nuns' arrest

The discourse around the recent arrest of two Kerala nuns on charges of human trafficking and forced religious conversion, and the subsequent bail granted by court, has revealed the implicit political compulsions of the BJP in the two states – Chhattisgarh and Kerala. While experts cited regional political dynamics as a plausible cause of the Chhattisgarh BJP camp's defense of the nuns' arrest, the party's Kerala unit may have seen it as a chance to mend fences with influential Church leaders. Kerala BJP rushed to intervene, with the state party chief welcoming the nuns as they walked out of Durg jail. The episode sent ripples in Kerala politics, as leaders from every political party was seen rushing to Chhattisgarh last week.

'Zero defect' target in aluminium production

A flagship quality transformation initiative titled 'Quality Sankalp' by the Bharat Aluminium Company Limited (Balco) has set a target to achieve "zero defect" across its diverse product portfolio. The unique monthly initiative engages over 300 employees and business partners across multiple units to foster a culture of shared accountability for quality within the Balco plant in Korba district. From raw material selection to final product inspection, rigorous quality checks are being systematically enforced. Raw materials undergo detailed scrutiny and extensive quality checks at each stage upholds product integrity.

Rail network expansion to boost transport infra

Chhattisgarh is set for a major boost to its transport infrastructure with construction of key multi-track corridors and new line laying projects already ongoing. The state's rail budget has seen a 21-fold rise over the last decade, with ₹6,900 crore allocated this year alone. These projects are seen as vital in minimising congestion along key railway routes, with increased speed of passenger and goods transport. While offering cost-effective alternative to road transport, these rail projects are projected to save over ₹2,500 crore annually in logistics costs. Notably, approved railway projects in once-conflict-hit Bastar is expected to facilitate socio-economic growth in the hinterlands.

Cockroaches on US-Mumbai AI plane irk flyers

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

AN Air India flight from San Francisco to Mumbai took off with cockroaches, prompting the crew members to relocate two passengers to other seats in mid-air. The incident occurred on Air India flight AI180, which operates from San Francisco to Mumbai via Kolkata.

Issuing a statement on Monday, Air India said, "On flight AI180 from San Francisco to Mumbai via Kolkata, two passengers were unfortunately bothered by the presence of a few small cockroaches on board. Our cabin crew, therefore, relocated the two passengers to other seats in the same cabin, where they were comfortable thereafter."

The flight had a stop at Kolkata for refuelling. During its stay there, the ground staff at the NSCBI airport conducted a deep cleaning process to address the issue, and the same aircraft subsequently departed in time for Mumbai. Offering an apology for any inconvenience caused to the passengers, an Air India spokesperson said, "Despite our regular fumigation efforts, insects can sometimes enter an aircraft during ground operations. Air India will be undertaking a comprehensive investigation."

2 pilots grounded after flight carrying CM lands at wrong runway in Raj

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

A chartered flight carrying Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma from Delhi to Phalodi mistakenly landed on the wrong runway on July 31, 2025. The Falcon-2000 aircraft was scheduled to land at the Indian Air Force Station in Phalodi, but due to pilot error, it instead touched down on the civil airstrip in Phalodi town.

The Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has launched an inquiry into the incident and grounded both pilots pending investigation. The incident occurred around 3 pm, shortly after the Chief Minister's departure from Delhi.

The aircraft was meant to land at a military airbase located in a restricted zone, but the pilots mistakenly approached the nearby civil airstrip, about five kilometers away. Realising the error immediately after landing, they took off again and redirected the plane to the designated airbase.

While the situation did not lead to any major mishap, it has raised serious concerns about aviation safety and procedural lapses. According to DGCA sources, the confusion likely stemmed from the similar geographical orientation and layout of the two airstrips. Both the civil and military runways in Phalodi share striking structural similarities, which may have led to the misjudgment.

It also emerged that the pilots were not provided with sufficient information about the two airstrips during the pre-flight briefing.

Experts say such incidents highlight the urgent need to strengthen pre-flight protocols, especially when two landing sites exist in proximity. The charter company has voluntarily reported the mistaken landing to the DGCA.

Visual resemblance between 2 airstrips

Sources confirmed that the distance between the civil airstrip and the Air Force Station in Phalodi is roughly five to ten kilometres, but the striking visual resemblance between the two caused the pilots to err. The DGCA is treating the matter seriously and is examining procedures to prevent similar incidents in the future, sources added.

MSMEs stare at bleak future as Gujarat job engine stalls

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

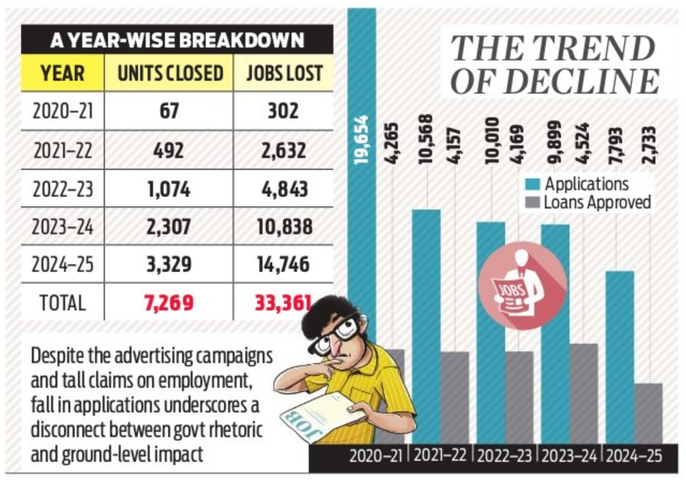
THE Prime Minister's Employment Generation Programme (PMEGP) seems to have failed to gain traction in Gujarat, with not a single application from key districts like Surat and Navsari in 2024-25. A sharp 60% decline in applications over five years, coupled with closure of 7,269 small and medium enterprises, has left over 33,000 people jobless.

In a damning indicator, Gujarat has witnessed a breakdown in the implementation of the PMEGP, particularly in major districts like Surat and Navsari, which recorded zero applications for the scheme in 2024–25. This data was revealed by a Union government reply in the Rajya Sabha to Gujarat MP Narhari Amin, laying bare the state's crumbling employment generation apparatus.

The collapse is not isolated. PMEGP applications have plummeted from 19,654 in 2020-21 to just 7,793 in 2024-25, a drop of over 60%. Even in tribal districts, where the scheme was meant to be a lifeline, the numbers are alarming with seven applications in Dang and Mahisagar, 16 in Chhota Udepur, and just two in Narmada.

A YEAR-WISE BREAKDOWN

YEAR	UNITS CLOSED	JOBS LOST
2020–21	67	302
2021–22	492	2,632
2022–23	1,074	4,843
2023–24	2,307	10,838
2024–25	3,329	14,746
TOTAL	7,269	33,361



Despite the advertising campaigns and tall claims on employment, fall in applications underscores a disconnect between govt rhetoric and ground-level impact

Despite the state's aggressive advertising campaigns and repeated tall claims on employment, this drastic fall in applications underscores a disconnect between government rhetoric and ground-level impact.

Gujarat Congress spokesperson Dr Hiren Banker minced no words, calling the scheme "employment generation in name only" and slamming the state government for its failure to extend any real benefits to job-seeking youth.

But the crisis runs far deeper than just dwindling application numbers. In response to a question by Congress president and Rajya Sabha MP Mallikarjun Kharge, the Centre has revealed alarming statistics on the state of Gujarat's small and medium enterprises (SMEs).

Over past five years, 7,269 MSMEs have shut down, leading to the loss of 33,361 jobs. The pace of closures has surged drastically from just 67 units in 2020-21 to a staggering 3,329 in 2024-25 alone, resulting in 14,746 job losses in a single year.

Even banks are tightening approvals with only 2,733 loans sanctioned in 2024–25, down from 4,265 in 2020–21. The decline has affected both urban and rural regions.

Will ensure tickets to all castes, says BPCC chief

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE Bihar Pradesh Congress Committee (BPCC) chief Rajesh Kumar (Ram) has asserted that the party will follow the principle of 'Jiski jitni hissedari, uski utni bhagidari" (The share depends on the level of participation) when distributing tickets for the upcoming state assembly elections.

Ram, a prominent Dalit face of Congress in the state, said that the party would ensure tickets to all castes, communities, and organisations in proportion to their population.

In an exclusive interview with this newspaper, Ram exuded confidence that grand alliance, which is a part of Opposition INDIA bloc, would perform better in the state polls, paving the way for formation of next government by secular forces. He, however, admitted that caste factors continue to play a major role in states like Bihar and UP. Even BJP by deviation from its plank of 'Hindutva' has started talking about caste equations in elections. Party leaders, including PM Narendra Modi, do not hesitate in revealing their castes at public places, he added.

The state Congress chief said that his party's main focus was on increasing participation of OBCs, EBCs, and minorities in the organisation. He, however, admitted that as of now, representation of OBCs and EBCs in the organisation was not in the right proportion, but this anomaly would be rectified as the state party committee was being reconstituted. At least four people from EBCs would be given tickets in the Assembly election, he added.

On Modi government's announcement on conducting caste census, Ram said that the credit for it should definitely go to Congress leader Rahul Gandhi who had been demanding for it since long. He said that caste census should be conducted on Telangana model as only then would social justice be ensured. Reservation quotas, including for the EWS, was 76% in Telangana, Ram added. He, however, lamented that the Nitish government failed to frame policies on the basis of caste and economic survey conducted in Bihar. The BPCC chief said that the party manifesto would include Mai Bahin Samman Yojana, free electricity up to 200 units, and filling up of 4 lakh vacant government posts.

He said these are not mere announcements as experts in Delhi have also worked on the financial viability of these programmes.

Domicile policy for recruitment of Bihar teachers

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

IN yet another populist move in the run-up to the Bihar Assembly elections slated to be held later this year, Chief Minister and JD(U) leader Nitish Kumar on Monday announced a 'domicile policy' in the recruitment of government teachers.

The move is aimed at giving priority to state residents in the recruitment process. The CM, however, did not specify what percentage of recruitments was to be reserved for those born and raised in the state. Under the policy, only residents of Bihar will be eligible to apply for the fourth phase of the teachers' recruitment examination (TRE-4), which will be conducted this year by the Bihar Public Service Commission.

'His transactions with world outside the tribe changed him and his needs'

HE would identify the oppressors—the landlord, his "lathait", the usurer, the dirty loan accounts register that sealed the fates of lakhs of tribals, the police, the block and district level administrative officials. He would tell him how the development the government in "Dilli" planned never reached them and why. He would finally tell them they should be free to rule their land. The seeds were sown, and a movement was born.

The JMM of his time was as much a political vehicle as it aspired for tribal self-rule and cultural survival. For the Bihar government, the demand for Jharkhand was a breakaway action by the tribals. For Soren, it was a reclamation of tribal homeland and identity.

The 1980s and 1990s saw a string of agitations and protests Soren organised throughout Chhotanagpur, mobilising thousands of tribals to undertake strikes and blockades. He went to jail many a time. His absences only added to his mystique. The tribals began to place his photos next to their forest deities. They would not leave his side till he allowed them to touch his feet and smear the mud from his footprints on their foreheads.

His transactions with the world outside the tribe changed him, his attire, his food and his needs. He learnt a smattering of English phrases as well. But some things remained at the core – his soft, mellow voice, his magnetic stare, the arresting baritone and beyond all, his tribal identity. At heart, he was always that small Santhali from Nemra in Bihar's Ramgarh.

FROM 'GURUJI' TO 'DISHOM GURU'

Born on January 11, 1944 at Nemra village under Gola Block of Ramgarh, he was fondly called Shivlal in his childhood, but was enrolled in school as Shivcharan Manjhi

His father, who was a teacher, was allegedly killed by money lenders in 1957, when Shibu was 13 years old

Shibu launched movement against money lenders, alcohol & rice beer

From 1972-1976, his movement managed to get land, grabbed by moneylenders, back to tribals

Shibu's call could gather thousands of tribals

Built an ashram in Dhanbad, and people started calling him Guruji

Got recognition on Santhal Pargana, called Dishom Guru

Formed JMM

Russia's President Vladimir Putin meets Denis Pushilin, Moscow-installed head of Donetsk in Ukraine, at Kremlin on Monday | AP

Don's deadline for Russia looms but Putin unruffled

Trump says Russians are wily characters, know how to avoid sanctions

MOSCOW

THE coming week could mark a pivotal moment in the war between Russia and Ukraine, as U.S. President Donald Trump's deadline for the Kremlin to reach a peace deal approaches — or it could quietly pass without consequence.

Trump's special envoy Steve Witkoff was expected in Moscow midweek, just before Trump's Friday deadline for the Kremlin to stop the killing or face potentially severe economic penalties from Washington.

So far Trump's promises, threats and cajoling have failed to shift the Kremlin's position, and the stubborn diplomatic stalemate remains in place. Meanwhile, Ukraine is losing more territory on the front line, although there is no sign of a looming collapse of its defenses.

Witkoff is expected to land in the Russian capital on Wednesday or Thursday, according to Trump, following his trip to Israel and Gaza.

Trump, exasperated that Russian President Vladimir Putin hasn't heeded his calls to stop bombing Ukrainian cities, a week ago moved up his ultimatum to impose additional sanctions on Russia as well as introduce secondary tariffs targeting countries that buy Russian oil, including China and India.

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said Monday, "We consider talks with Witkoff will be important, substantive and very useful."

Trump said Sunday that Russia has proven to be "pretty good at avoiding sanctions."

"They're wily characters," he said of the Russians.

The Kremlin has insisted that international sanctions imposed since its February 2022 invasion of its neighbor have had a limited impact.

Ukraine insists the sanctions are taking their toll on Moscow's war machine and wants Western allies to ramp them up. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy on Monday urged the United States, Europe and other nations to impose stronger secondary sanctions on Moscow's energy, trade and banking sectors.

Trump's comments appeared to signal he doesn't have much hope that sanctions will force Putin's hand.

The secondary sanctions also complicate Washington's relations with China and India, who stand accused of helping finance Russia's war effort by buying its oil.

Since returning to office in January, Trump has found that stopping the war is harder than he perhaps imagined.

Senior American officials have warned that the U.S. could walk away from the conflict if peace efforts make no progress.

The diplomatic atmosphere has become more heated as Trump's deadline approaches.

Putin announced last Friday that Russia's new hypersonic missile, the Oreshnik, has entered service.

The Russian leader has hailed its capabilities, saying its multiple warheads that plunge to a target at speeds of up to Mach 10 cannot be intercepted. He claimed that they are so powerful that the use of several of them in one conventional strike could be as devastating as a nuclear attack.

Trump responded to what he called the "highly provocative statements" by former Russian president Dmitry Medvedev by ordering the repositioning of two U.S. nuclear submarines.

Russia's relentless pounding of urban areas behind the front line have killed more than 12,000 Ukrainian civilians, according to the United Nations.

Russia urges caution on nuclear hyperbole

Russia urged caution on Monday after US President Donald Trump last week said he would deploy two nuclear submarines following an online row with former Russian president Dmitry Medvedev. "Russia is very attentive to nuclear non-proliferation. And we believe that everyone should be very, very cautious with nuclear rhetoric," Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said

Israel eyes world lens on Gaza hostages

TEL AVIV

ISRAEL'S Foreign Minister Gideon Saar said Monday that the plight of hostages held in Gaza should top the global agenda, ahead of a UN Security Council session on the issue.

"The world must put an end to the phenomenon of kidnapping civilians. It must be front and centre on the world stage," Saar told a press briefing.

"I will head to New York tonight to participate in a special UN Security Council session that I initiated, taking place tomorrow (Tuesday) on the situation of the hostages," the minister added.

Of the 251 hostages seized during Hamas's October 2023 attack on Israel that triggered the ongoing Gaza war, 49 are still held in the Palestinian territory, including 27 the Israeli military says are dead.

The UN session was called after Palestinian militant group Hamas and its ally Islamic Jihad had published last week three videos showing two hostages who appear weak and emaciated, causing deep shock and distress in Israel.

The videos renewed a public debate in Israel over the urgency of securing a ceasefire and hostage release deal, as the war nears its 23rd month.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said Sunday he was "shocked" by the "horror videos of our precious sons".

"You see them withering away in tunnels. But the Hamas monster... have all the food they need. They starve them like Nazis starved the Jews," said Netanyahu, who has faced mounting international pressure to halt the war.

Abu Obeida, spokesman of Hamas' armed wing, said the group was willing to allow Red Cross access to the hostages in exchange for permanent humanitarian access for food and medicine into all of Gaza. He said the videos were released as warnings about the hunger crisis in Gaza.

On Monday, dozens of Palestinians were killed or wounded as desperate crowds headed toward food distribution points and airdropped parcels in the Gaza Strip, according to local health officials. AFP

POLICE WARNS OF SPIES POSING AS TOURISTS

Chief of the National Police (Polri), General Listyo Sigit Prabowo, has asked the Immigration and Corrections Ministry to remain alert to the possibility of espionage actors entering Indonesia in the guise of refugees or tourists. Speaking at a coordination meeting with the ministry here on Monday, he highlighted the need for increased vigilance amid the current global situation. "In today's conditions, we must be cautious as they may not only be entering as refugees or tourists. In some cases, they are espionage actors," he said. Such actors could threaten internal security, he said.

CAMBODIAN, THAI OFFICIALS MEET IN MALAYSIA

Thailand and Cambodian officials met in Malaysia on Monday for the first round of cross-border committee talks since a tense ceasefire was brokered last week after five days of deadly armed border clashes that killed dozens and displaced over 260,000 people. The July 28 ceasefire followed economic pressure from U.S. President Donald Trump, who had warned the warring nations that the U.S. would not conclude trade deals with them if the fighting persisted. Monday's talks focused on ironing out details to avoid further clashes. Discussions of the territorial claims are not on the agenda.

South Korea removes border propaganda loud speakers

SEOUL

SOUTH Korea's military said on Monday it had begun removing loudspeakers along its border with rival North Korea in a move aimed at reducing tensions.

The speakers had previously been used to blast anti-North Korean propaganda across the border, but the South's new liberal government halted the broadcasts in June in a conciliatory gesture as it looks to rebuild trust and revive dialogue with Pyongyang, which has largely cut off cooperation with the South in recent years.

South Korea's Defense Ministry said the physical removal of the loudspeakers from the border was another "practical measure" aimed at easing tensions between the war-divided Koreas and that it does not affect the South's military readiness.

Lee Kyung-ho, a spokesperson for the ministry, didn't share specific details on how the removed loudspeakers will be stored or whether they could be quickly redeployed to the border if tensions flare again between the Koreas. There were no discussions between the two militaries ahead of the South's decision to remove the speakers, Lee said during a briefing.

North Korea, which is extremely sensitive to any outside criticism of its authoritarian leadership and its third-generation ruler, Kim Jong Un, didn't immediately comment on the South Korean step.

The South's previous conservative government resumed the daily loudspeaker broadcasts in June last year following a year-long pause in retaliation for North Korea flying trash-laden balloons toward the South in a psychological warfare campaign.

The speakers blasted propaganda messages and K-pop songs to take on North. AP

Britain's first female MI5 spy chief dies

LONDON

STELLA Rimington, the first female chief of Britain's MI5 intelligence agency and later a successful thriller writer, has died, her family said Monday. She was 90.

The first woman to head a UK intelligence agency, Rimington was the inspiration for Judi Dench's portrayal of MI6 chief M in seven James Bond films.

Her family said in a statement that Rimington died on Sunday "surrounded by her beloved family and dogs."

Stella Rimington

MI5's current director-general, Ken McCallum, said that "as the first avowed female head of any intelligence agency in the world, Dame Stella broke through long-standing barriers and was a visible example of the importance of diversity in leadership."

Born in London in 1935, Rimington studied English at Edinburgh University. She was living in India with her diplomat husband in the mid-1960s when she was recruited by MI5, Britain's domestic security service, as a part-time clerk and typist in its New Delhi office.

She joined the agency full-time after moving back to London in 1969 and rose through the ranks. Rimington was appointed MI5 director-general in 1992. After stepping down in 1996, Rimington was made a dame, the female equivalent of a knight, by Queen Elizabeth II. Rimington later published a memoir, "Open Secret". AP

Afghanistan has its 'sharpest surge' ever of child malnutrition, says UN

ISLAMABAD

AFGHANISTAN is seeing its sharpest-ever surge of child malnutrition, the World Food Program said Monday, adding it needed $539 million to help the most vulnerable families.

Almost 10 million people, a quarter of Afghanistan's population, face acute food insecurity. One in three children is stunted.

The WFP said the rise in child malnutrition was linked to a drop in emergency food assistance over the past two years because of dwindling donor support. In April, the administration of U.S. President Donald Trump cut off food aid to Afghanistan, one of the world's poorest countries.

The US had been the largest funder of the WFP, providing $4.5 billion of the $9.8 billion in donations last year.

Food insecurity in Afghanistan is being worsened by mass deportation from neighboring countries, which are deporting foreigners.

The WFP said it does not have funding to cover the returnee response at this time. AP

Trump to name new data official this week

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump said Monday that he would pick an "exceptional replacement" to his labor statistics chief -- after ordering her dismissal as a new report showed weakness in the US jobs market.

In a post on his Truth Social platform, Trump reiterated -- without immediately providing evidence -- that an employment report released last Friday "was rigged."

He alleged that the official had manipulated data to diminish his administration's economic accomplishments.

"We'll be announcing a new (labor) statistician some time over the next three-four days," Trump earlier told reporters.

He added Monday: "I will pick an exceptional replacement."

US job growth missed expectations in July, figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed Friday, and sharp revisions to hiring figures in recent months brought them to the weakest levels since the Covid-19. Shortly afterwards, Trump ordered the removal of Erika McEntarfer, the department's commissioner of labor statistics. Trump told reporters: "We had no confidence. I mean the numbers were ridiculous." Trump added that the same official, just before the 2024 election, "came out with these phenomenal numbers on (Joe) Biden's economy." AP

UK to invest £100 million to curb illegal migration

LONDON

THE UK on Monday announced it will invest £100 million as part of its efforts to control soaring illegal migration.

The new funding is earmarked for up to 300 extra National Crime Agency (NCA) officers, state-of-the-art detection technology and new equipment targeting criminal networks behind people smuggling, the Home Office said. The NCA's Border Security Command and other law enforcement agencies will benefit from a cash injection to strengthen investigations targeting smuggling kingpins and disrupt their operations across Europe, the Middle East, Africa, Asia and beyond, it added.

The funding package will go towards supporting a new pilot of the 'one-in, one-out' UK returns agreement, which will see migrants who arrive illegally on small boats returned to France.

UK Prime MInister Keir Starmer speaks to stakeholders on Monday | EXPRESS

It will also support the new powers to be introduced when the Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Bill becomes law, criminalising the creation and publication of online material that promotes a breach of immigration law.

"This additional funding will strengthen every aspect of our plan, and will turbo-charge the ability of our law enforcement agencies to track the gangs and bring them down, working with our partners overseas, and using state-of-the-art technology and equipment," said UK Home Secretary Yvette Cooper.

The Labour Party minister accused the previous Conservative Party government of allowing small boat smuggling gangs to embed their criminal trade across the English Channel, putting lives at risk with dangerous migrant crossings.

"They must not be allowed to get away with this vile crime. That is why this government has developed a serious and comprehensive plan to dismantle their business model, from disrupting their supply chains across the European continent to clamping down on their illegal working operations here in the UK," said Cooper.

New hi-tech surveillance capabilities and AI-intelligence and data analysis tools as well as extended police powers are the government's priorities. PTI

Morgan Stanley sees Sensex at 1L by next July

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DESPITE the continuing blood bath in the market on tariff woes, Wall Street major Morgan Stanley has sounded very bullish on Dalal Street pegging the benchmark Sensex at the 1-lakh-mark by July 2026 in a bull case, citing several potential triggers for the rally.

But in a 'bear' case scenario, with a possibility of 20%, the Sensex may plunge to 70,000 by July 2026 and in a base case, scenario the index may scale to 89,000, with a 50% probability.

The bull case has 30% probability when the Sexsex will be on clound 9 or at 1,00,000 by July next. The Sensex is massively down from its all-time peak of 85,978.25 it gained in the last week of September 2024 and after bleeding for five days, it closed with 0.52% at 81,019 Monday.

Vinfast opens 1st India EV plant in Tamil Nadu

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Thoothukudi

THE VinFast electric vehicle (EV) assembly plant at SIPCOT industrial park in Tamil Nadu's Thoothukudi, inaugurated by Chief Minister MK Stalin on Monday, is its first facility being operationalised outside its home country Vietnam.

Spread over 400 acres, the plant is equipped with a state-of-the-art production unit with world-class standards featuring advanced automation and cutting-edge technologies. Having a capacity to manufacture 50,000 cars a year, VinFast Tamil Nadu will focus on assembling two premium electric SUV models, VF6 and VF7.

> The future of electric vehicles is irreversible because we are under pressure of global warming to shift to green energy resources
>
> Pham Sanh Chau, chief executive officer, VinFast Asia

"The future of EVs is irreversible as we are under pressure of global warming to shift to green energy resources," said Pham Sanh Chau, VinFast Asia CEO, after inauguration of the plant. The company is capable of meeting demands of the Indian market which is large, said Chau.

Unlike other country buyers who buy a car only for its 'brand' value and don't care about its features, Indian customers are interested in choosing cars based on its features. "They buy car because they have good knowledge of car. They like the car because of its features. They make contributions to features. So, I love it," he said. Chau added that the future of EVs is irreversible as this is the trend of the whole world as we are under pressure of global warming to shift to EVs. "Based on needs the stamping shop will be included along with existing body shop, paint shop, assembly shop, quality control centre and a logistics hub to make the plant a full-fledged manufacturing unit."

Chau remained tight-lipped on price of the e-cars even as the EV major had launched its pre-booking over a fortnight ago. The prices will be announced on an auspicious day, he said adding it will be affordable. VinFast India director Pragladan Thirpati said as batteries required for the cars are being manufactured at its Vietnam plant, a battery production unit would be set up when demand increases. He said the plant will prioritise collaboration with domestic suppliers, promoting supply chain localisation, tech transfer and workforce upskilling.

Rajiv Anand is new MD, CEO of IndusInd Bank

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Board of Directors of IndusInd Bank Limited on Monday approved the appointment of Rajiv Anand as the Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer of the bank, effective August 25, 2025, for a tenure of three years.

The position had been lying vacant since April 29, when then MD & CEO Sumant Kathpalia resigned following the detection of unaccounted derivative losses at the bank.

Rajiv Anand brings with him over 35 years of experience in the banking and financial services industry. In his most recent role, he served as Deputy Managing Director at Axis Bank Limited. He has a proven track record in scaling retail and corporate banking operations, and possesses deep expertise in capital markets, treasury, and asset management.

In a statement issued late Monday night, IndusInd Bank said that Anand's appointment marks the bank's fulfillment of its commitment to swiftly identify a leader with the right competencies and strong ethical grounding. Commenting on the appointment, Sunil Mehta, Chairman of the Board of Directors, said, "On behalf of the Board, I congratulate Rajiv Anand on his appointment as the MD & CEO of the Bank. The Board looks forward to working closely with Rajiv and the management team to deliver strong and sustainable growth, while upholding the highest standards of governance

China's Ant Group to sell entire stake in Paytm

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CHINA'S Ant Group is all set to exit One 97 Communications, the parent company of Paytm, as it plans to sell its remaining 5.84% equity stake in the fintech firm through block deals on Tuesday. Sources said that the total value of the deal is pegged at ₹3,800 crore

The floor price for the block deal has been fixed at ₹1,020 per share, a 5.4% discount to Paytm's last closing price of ₹1,078.20 on Monday on the NSE. The stake sale is likely to be executed as a clean-out trade, indicating a full exit of Antfin's specified stake in a single tranche. At the end of June quarter, Antfin (Netherlands) Holding B.V. held a 5.84% stake, or 3.77 crore shares in the company, according to exchange data. Antfin has been reducing its stake in the Paytm in recent quarters.

This is the third significant stake sale by the Ant Group in One 97 Communications and is expected to lead to the full exit of the Chinese investors from the company. In May 2025 and August 2023, the Alibaba-owned company sold about a 14.3% stake of Paytm for about ₹8,830 crore.

Paytm has also seen the exit of Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway and Japan's SoftBank Group in the past two years. Antfin in 2023 sold a 10.3% stake in the fintech company to founder and CEO Vijay Shekhar Sharma.

As per exchange data, finvestors currently hold the largest stake in Paytm at 54.9%, followed by general shareholders, whose stake stands at 29.3%.

Paytm reported a net profit of ₹122.5 crore for the first time since its listing in the first quarter of FY26.

This compares to a net loss of ₹839 crore in the same quarter last fiscal. Revenue for the quarter grew 27.7% year-on-year to ₹1,917.5 crore.

Tata Motors appoints PB Balaji CEO of JLR, first Indian to hold the post

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA MOTORS' British subsidiary Jaguar Land Rover (JLR) on Monday announced appointment of PB Balaji as chief executive officer from November 2025. Balaji has been serving as the Group CFO of Tata Motors Group since November 2017 and is a well-regarded global leader with 32 years of experience in automotive and consumer goods industries across finance and supply chain functions.

Balaji will succeed Adrian Mardell, who will retire from JLR after 3 years as CEO and 35 years with the company. N Chandrasekaran, chairman - Jaguar Land Rover PLC, Tata Motors and Tata Sons, said,

"The search for a suitable candidate to lead JLR has been undertaken by the Board for past few months and after careful consideration it was decided to appoint Balaji. He has been associated with the company for past many years and is familiar with the company, its strategy and has been working with the JLR leadership team. This move will ensure that we continue to accelerate our journey to Reimagine JLR." During Mardell's tenure as CEO of JLR, a programme was announced to turn Jaguar into a luxury all-electric brand. The controversial transformation of Jaguar's Type 00 concept car, revealed last year, was slammed by critics for its radical design and shouty colours.

JLR, reportedly, insisted his retirement had nothing to do with the outcry, and had been planned for some time. Adrian Mardell said,"These three years have been a great privilege. Together with incredible JR workforce, we have cemented JLR's position in automotive industry during a time of incredible change.

GST dept detects ₹7 lakh cr evasion during FY2021-25

ENS ECONOMIC BUREA @ New Delhi

THE GST department has detected tax evasion worth ₹7.07 lakh crore in last five-year period from 2020-21 to 2024-25 in over 91,000 cases. Responding to a question in Lok Sabha, minister of state, finance Pankaj Chaudhary said against total evaded amount, the department recovered ₹1.29 lakh crore, or 18.5% of ₹7.07 lakh crore.

Of the total evasion, input tax credit fraud cases accounted for ₹1.78 lakh crore. The minister told parliament the government has taken steps to help improve compliance and prevent tax evasion. The minister said with the help of analytics via automated risk assessment based on compliance attributes of taxpayers, GST officials can detect 'outliers' based on system-flagged mismatches, providing actionable intelligence with an aim to manage GST revenue risks via various tools. The analytics tools help department in generating inputs on non-compliances or evasion on the basis of identifying anomalies in taxpayer behaviour like potential tax evasion, fraudulent registration, and suspicious e-way bill activity etc and selection of returns for scrutiny and selection of taxpayers for audit based on risk parameters. While the above measures contribute to revenue collection, the impact of such measures in identifying systemic gaps, improving compliance and preventing recurring tax evasion is not ascertainable, said the minister.

Japan's JFE, JSW to invest ₹5,485 cr to ramp-up electrical steel production

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WITH the demand for specialised electrical steel rising, JSW Steel, largest producer of hot-rolled metal, and Japanese alloy major JFE Steel Corporation together will invest ₹5,485 crore to augment the specialised electrical steel capacity to 3.5 lakh tonne across its Vijayanagar and Nashik facilities.

The two companies have announced two more joint ventures (JVs). The investment will be made through JVs JSW JFE Electrical Steel in Vijayanagar in Karnataka, and JSW JFE Electrical Steel Nashik in Maharashtra. While the Vijayanagar facility will get ₹1,545 crore of additional investment from JSW, the JSW Steel-JFE Steel joint venture will invest ₹4,300 crore in the Nashik facility to ramp up speicalised grain-oriented electrical steel (GOES) capacity. Both the capacity augmentations will take its installed output by 3.5 lakh tonne per annum, the Sajjan Jindal-led company said in a regulatory filing Monday.

The move comes as the nation moves faster towards energy and mobility transition, both of which deploy grain-oriented electrical steel.

"The capacity additional will be for the grain-oriented electrical steel (GOES) through their joint ventures-- JSW JFE Electrical Steel at Vijayanagar in Karnataka, and JSW JFE Electrical Steel Nashik in Maharashtra. The JV partners will expand grain-oriented electrical steel capacity to 350,000 tonne per annum and will jointly invest around Rs 5,845 crore towards this expansion," the statement added.

NITI Aayog proposes shift from subsidy to regulatory action for EV adoption

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN order to fast-track India's electric mobility ambitions, NITI Aayog has proposed a shift from subsidies to regulatory mandates.

While earlier EV adoption efforts relied on financial incentives, NITI Aayog suggests the need to transition towards mandates and disincentives. These include clear policy targets for zero emission vehicle (ZEV) adoption, stricter corporate average fuel efficiency (CAFÉ) norms, and regulatory frameworks to phase out internal combustion engine (ICE) vehicles.

Other recommendations include saturating select urban areas with EVs, enabling low-cost financing for commercial EV segments, and ramping up investment in battery technology and charging infrastructure.

The proposals come at a time when India's EV penetration stands at 7.6% of total vehicle sales in 2024, far behind its target of 30% by 2030. As per NITI Aayog, it has taken a decade to reach this level, and India must now accelerate its efforts significantly to meet 2030 goal.

The government think tank says rather than spreading resources thinly across the country, saturate a select number of cities with EVs to create visible success stories and drive replication. A pilot program covering five cities over five years is proposed, with plans to scale up to 20 and eventually 100 cities.

These cities would see a comprehensive rollout of electric buses, para-transit vehicles, and freight carriers, with dedicated state-level agencies to coordinate planning, procurement, and financing.

Mohammed Siraj celebrates the wicket of Gus Atkinson on Monday | PTI

MOHAMMED Siraj was running in to deliver the first ball of the 86th over at Kennington Oval — his 1113th legitimate ball in what had been a marathon of a Test series between India and England. He had already become the leading wicket-taker, having bowled more overs than anyone else across 25 days of play which began at Leeds a few moons ago.

Even the spell he was on started Sunday evening and thanks to rain and bad light interruptions, he had been on 12 overs. This was his 13th. So, he could have been tired. He might not have the same energy or pace. But not Siraj. He woke up on Monday morning telling himself that he should win the game for India. He googled "believe", downloaded his idol Cristiano Ronaldo's picture with the word 'believe' and made it his phone wallpaper. He kept telling himself to believe.

And as he ran, trying to get Gus Atkinson, the last wicket of England, out, Siraj knew he was going to give everything he had got. Siraj delivered a pinpoint yorker, racing at 143 KPH — his fifth-quickest of the 1113 legitimate balls. The result? Everything he had dreamt and manifested and believed. Off-stump went for a toss and Siraj leapt in the air with his trademark Ronaldo celebration, raised his arms aloft and thanked the heavens before being embraced by his teammates. The 31-year-old pacer from Hyderabad saw India to a memorable series levelling victory, registering yet another fifer.

The script for Siraj could not have been better after what he had been through. At Lord's Siraj was heartbroken when a ball he defended rolled onto the stumps giving England a narrow victory. During England's second innings at The Oval when Joe Root and Harry Brook were running away with the match, Siraj kept thinking about how he caught the latter when he was on 19 before stepping on the boundary ropes. It made him wonder why it kept happening to him. However, the pacer's intensity didn't drop. He, in fact, was the one who believed India can still do it. Add to it, a not so impressive show by his fellow pacer Akash Deep made things more challenging for him. It only added to his workload but he remained undeterred. "From the first day to the fifth Test of the series and the fifth day of the match, the way we fought, it was an unbelievable fight. Each and everyone in the dressing room, everyone in the dressing room had the belief that we will win the match from here. Because everyone is a youngster. Everyone had the belief that we will win the match from here," the pacer told reporters after the win.

Among the pacers, only two have played in all five matches and as Chris Woakes didn't bowl in India's second innings after dislocating his shoulder on Day 1 of the fifth and final Test here at the Oval, India's Siraj remained the last man standing by the end of the long and gruelling tour that saw injuries ruling out players especially the fast bowlers. With their pace spearhead Jasprit Bumrah available only for three matches due to his workload management and others like Akash Deep and Nitish Kumar Reddy getting injured during the course of the series, Siraj was the only available option for Shubman Gill and Co. And Siraj, whi finished with 23 wickets in nine innings during the series, made it count by emerging India's most potent attack and helping them level the series 2-2.

Considering his workload and the way he stepped up every single match, India's bowling coach Morne Morkel had termed Siraj outstanding on this tour after fourth day play on Sunday. England skipper Ben Stokes after the match said he has a lot of respect and admiration for Siraj. "I've always had great respect and admiration for Mohammed Siraj. As a competitor. He just keeps coming and coming and coming. You know he's going to be in the fight with you. Again, just another example of what it means. This game in particular, I've always had a lot of respect for the way Siraj goes about his cricket, what he does and how he takes it on," Stokes told journalists during the post-match press conference.

If the fast bowlers' performances since 2024 are taken into consideration, Siraj is there at the top — playing the most number of matches and bowling the maximum overs. He might not be the top wicket-taker during this period but the amount of overs he has bowled during this period speaks a volume about him. In this duration, Siraj featured in 19 matches, bowling 500 overs, the most by any pacer during this period, in 36 innings and claimed 62 wickets including three five-wicket hauls.

If it was England captain Stokes, who inspired his team with his crucial and marathon spells during the first four matches, it's Siraj who did the same for the visitors. What stands him out of other pacers is his longevity during the tiring and energy-sapping tour. More than a year ago, moments after Bumrah took India to T20 World Cup glory at the Kensington Oval, Barbados, Siraj was asked about what he felt and he said: "I only believe in Jassi Bhai, because he is a game-changer". On Monday, just as he walked off the field after an incredible series-levelling performance at the Kennington Oval, Siraj asked, once again, about his feelings and he said: "I always believe in myself." And this time, Siraj was indeed the game-changer for India.

AFTER 25 DAYS OF TOIL, IT IS EVEN-STEVENS

FIROZ MIRZA @London

ENGLAND were only 35 runs shy of winning the final Test and the five-match series 3-1 when the play resumed here at the Oval on Monday morning. Overnight batter Jamie Overton slammed two fours off the first two deliveries bowled by Prasidh Krishna to bring the equation down to 27.

With wicketkeeper-batter Jamie Smith at the non-striker's end, it appeared England will complete the formalities in the next few overs to walk away with the honours. Mohammed Siraj, however, had some other plans.

The Hyderabad pacer looked like a man possessed as he steamed into bowl from the Pavilion End. He beat Smith with the first two deliveries swinging them away from the batter and then made him nick the third one. Dhruv Jurel held the low catch but umpire Kumar Dharmasena went upstairs to check whether the catch was clean. It was and hence began one of the most mesmerising and lethal spells of Test cricket in the modern era. It was all Siraj's show thereafter as the next one hour of play saw the pacer bringing England down to their knees single-handedly to win the match and level the series for India.

The pacer almost had Gus Atkinson the next delivery but the catch fell short of second slip fielder KL Rahul. Smith's wicket infused new confidence not only in the team but the Indian supporters, who thronged the venue to cheer for their team, albeit for an hour. They followed every step Siraj took during his run up and let out huge oohs and aahs whenever the pacer had a go at the batter with his incisive line and length. Such was Siraj's impact that every ball he bowled became an event. Every time he ran into bowl, Indian fans were expecting a wicket and he obliged as he sent back Jamie Overton the next over reducing England to 354/4, still 20 runs away from the target.

India looked out of the contest on Day 4 afternoon when Harry Brook and Joe Root were going hammer and tongs. The duo added 195 runs for the fourth wicket to push India to the wall. But Shubman Gill and Co never lost hope and staged one of the most remarkable comebacks in Test history. "What we did this morning kind of summarizes what this team is all about. 70 odd runs, 7 wickets in hand. The way Brook and Root were going, not many teams in the world would have given themselves a chance. But this team believes that whenever we have some kind of an opening, we can make that, we can get through that opening," captain Gill told journalists after the match.

Gill complimented Siraj and said having a bowler like him makes captain's job easy. "And that's what we were talking about once Brook was out and then we got early wicket of Bethel, that this is our opening. One more wicket from here, and you never know, it's cricket, still 70 odd runs on Day 4, on that kind of a wicket, or even 50 runs, they would be under pressure. But when you've got bowlers like him bowling, it makes your job as a captain very easy. You're just standing out there and you just want to appreciate their bowling," he said.

England had lost two wickets but they still were the favourites to win the contest. Atkinson and Josh Tongue survived Siraj's next over bringing down the equation to 18. Siraj needed support from the other end and Prasidh delivered as he castled Tongue to bring Chris Woakes to the crease. The pacer still has his left arm hidden inside his jumper with the sling in place. His right arm was strapped but he was there to see his side home along with Atkinson. Akash Deep then spilled a catch of Atkinson, but Siraj and India had the last laugh in the end.

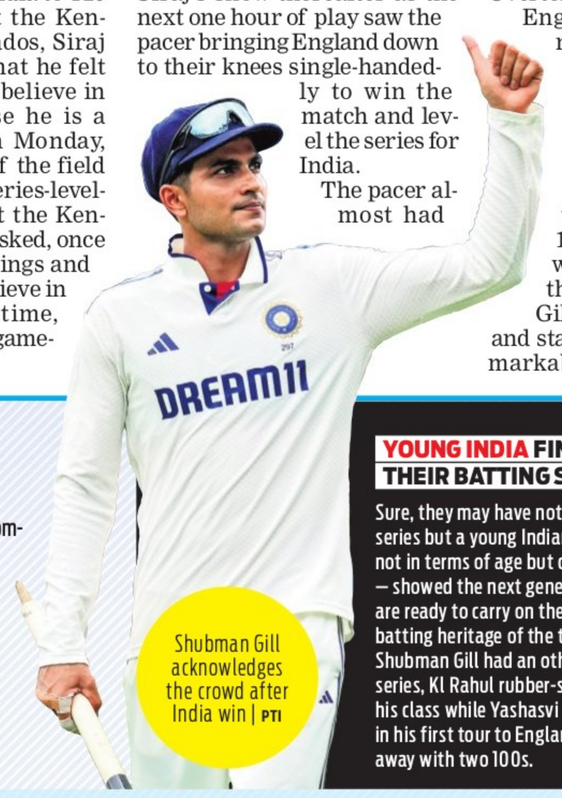
A series to remember

After 25 very absorbing days spread a shade over 40 days, the denouement came at The Oval, with India clinching a famous come-from-behind win to level the series. A look at why the inaugural edition of the Anderson-Tendulkar trophy will be remembered for a while...

SIRAJ, A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS

Mohammed Siraj had been a lesser celebrated name in India's pace threesome over the last 5 years. Over the last five Tests, the wider cricketing community finally gave their appreciation for somebody who will never stop trying. He married heart with art over the most challenging conditions for a bowler, had the finaly say and walked away as the leading wicket-taker.



Shubman Gill acknowledges the crowd after India win | PTI

YOUNG INDIA FINDS THEIR BATTING SHOES

Sure, they may have not won the series but a young Indian team — not in terms of age but caps wise — showed the next generation are ready to carry on the rich batting heritage of the team. Shubman Gill had an otherwordly series, Kl Rahul rubber-stamped his class while Yashasvi Jaiswal, in his first tour to England, came away with two 100s.

THE BUMRAH QUESTION

It kind of segues into a conversation that will be had in the BCCI headquarters in the weeks ahead. Jasprit Bumrah is a generational seamer but if he's not in a position to play all five Tests beforehand, is that fair? Will they ask him to lessen his white-ball duties although there's nothing to suggest that that would help him in playing five back-to-back Tests inside 50 days.

STOKES THE WARRIOR

Ben Stokes' back-breaking spell at Lord's not only broke open the game for the hosts but it may have done more long term harm to his body. But he's still there, ready to go. It was also a reminder as to why the England team adopted their new approach fairly quickly. When you see your leader put their body on the line, you will doubtless feel inspired to do the same thing.

ROOT UNPARALLELED When the pandemic began in 2019, Joe Root was frustrating because he let moments go. He still scored a mountain of runs but he was the Big Four's nearly man. Six years later, Root is now the world's best Test batter. An uncomplicated method centred around run accumulation, playing the situation and knowing what to do (and what not to do) has seen him leapfrog a lot of legends.

NEW DELHI: India, on Monday, included young defender Poovanna CB in the 24-member men's hockey team to be led by ace drag flicker Harmanpreet Singh for the four-match Tour of Australia, starting August 15 in Perth. The assignment will be an exposure tour ahead of the all-important Asia Cup at home in Rajgir.

Asian Surfing C'ships: Three Indians advance

ENS @Chennai

DAY one of the Asian Surfing Championships kicked off in Mahabalipuram on Monday with Indians Ramesh Budihal, Kishore Kumar and Srikanth D advancing to the next round with ease. With waves as high as four feet, surfers made the most out of it to advance to Round 3 from the seeding round of the open men's category. Those with less satisfactory scores will have another chance in the repechage round.

Neil Sanchez from the Philippines impressed early on the day, with a heat score of 14.00. He finished well ahead of John John Chan of Chinese Taipei (9.87 pts). Mega Artana of Indonesia also impressed, scoring 16.50 making it the highest score of the day. His opponents in the round — Mohammed Ghazi of Saudi Arabia (1.73 pts) and Naif Alkhatrash of Kuwait (1.03pts) were nowhere close to competing. Kishore (12.17 pts) defeated Mohammed Nazrin (8.40 pts) in his heat round, winning with a difference of 3.77 points.

Aman secures Worlds ticket

AGENCIES @Lucknow

PARIS Olympic bronze medallist Aman Sehrawat was hardly challenged in the World Championship selection trials while Sujeet Kalkal put on tremendous counter-attacking skills to lock his place in the national side in the men's freestyle 65kg weight category, here Monday.

Next month's World Championship in Zagreb, Croatia, will be Sehrawat's only second international event since he won a bronze in the French capital in 2024.

The 22-year old Sehrawat settled for a bronze at the Mongolia Ranking Series event in June to make a comeback to competitive wrestling. On Monday, he looked sharper than what was on show in Mongolia. The only points he lost to Sumit in his opening bout were push-out points as his double-leg attacks gave him complete control of the match. He won by technical superiority within the first period.

The final against Rahul also turned out to be a lop-sided affair as Sehrawat again won by technical superiority and this time without conceding a point. The competition in the men's freestyle 65kg was fierce and in the end it was Sujeet who emerged the winner. Deepak Punia, who has moved to 92kg after competing in 86kg in the Tokyo Olympics, also locked his place in the national side. Mukul Dahiya, who qualified for the U20 World Championship, succeeded in making the senior squad too in the 86kg category. Also making an impression was Haryana's Amit, who trains at Army Sports Institute in Pune.

BFC suspend salaries of 1st team

ENS @Bengaluru

AMIDST growing uncertainty over the Indian Super League starting this season, Bengaluru FC has announced that it has suspended salaries to players and staff involved in the first team for an indefinite period. "Running and sustaining a football club in India has always been an uphill climb, one that we have put everything aside and made, season after season. However the lack of clarity on the league's future leaves us with no choice but to take this step," the statement read.

The ISL's future is at jeopardy due to an expiring Masters Right Agreement (MRA) yet to be extended by the All India Football Federation and the owners of the ISL.

According to WHO, smoking is the leading cause of lung cancer, responsible for approximately 85% of all cases. Other risk factors are secondhand smoke, air pollution, and workplace hazards like chemicals and asbestos. Lung cancer is often diagnosed at advanced stages when treatment options are limited

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

DANIEL* was 25 years old when he injured his knees while playing football. Scans confirmed that it was an Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL) tear. As a professional sportsperson, this was concerning for him as injuries and keeping away from games could break his career. Following his diagnosis, doctors at the Sports Injury Centre at Vardhman Mahavir Medical College (VMMC) and Safdarjung Hospital in Delhi, crafted a personalised treatment plan tailored to address his specific needs and help him regain mobility.

They opted for a surgical procedure to repair the torn ACL by recreating the ligament's natural anatomy within the knee joint. Following surgery, the young man was enrolled in a customised, phase-wise rehabilitation programme. As healing progressed, he underwent progressive strength training, agility drills, and rehab, which included underwater treadmill training and hydrotherapy – exercising in a pool as part of the treatment.

In just six months, the footballer had regained his full capacity and returned to his game with the same confidence.

What worked in his quick recovery was that he underwent a minimally invasive surgical procedure, as opposed to traditional open surgery, which is now commonly being used due to technological advancements for diagnosing and treating joint problems.

"Arthroscopic surgery, a minimally invasive technique, has significantly advanced the repair of muscle and bone injuries. It has enhanced surgical accuracy, reduced complications, and supported quicker recovery," said Dr Deepak Joshi, director of Sports Injury Centre, VMMC and Safdarjung Hospital.

"High-definition arthroscopes, along with augmented reality (AR) and virtual reality (VR) technologies, provide surgeons with better visualisation and guidance during surgery, leading to increased precision," he added.

He cited another case where newer technologies and advancements helped reduce the suffering of an old patient. A 65-year-old woman suffering from chronic right shoulder pain, with limited mobility, and functional impairment due to long-standing rotator cuff arthropathy or degenerative arthritis of the shoulder was scheduled for a reverse shoulder replacement at the Delhi hospital.

In her case, instead of the traditional 2D image, the doctors used detailed 3D imaging — a technology that captures and represents objects in three dimensions, adding depth information — to determine the optimal implant size and its positioning.

Twelve weeks after surgery, she regained pain-free shoulder motion and was able to perform daily activities independently. "Through 3D imaging and patient-specific templating, surgical accuracy is significantly improved, reducing complications and promoting faster functional recovery," Dr Joshi added.

Over 15 crore Indians suffer from musculoskeletal conditions like fractures, arthritis, and ligament injuries. While minor bone defects may heal naturally, those of a critical size necessitate intervention through the use of implants or grafts.

Adoption of innovative technologies

In recent years, India has witnessed the adoption of innovative technologies in bone and muscle repair, including 3D printing for patient-specific implants and bioactive scaffolds, biodegradable fixation devices, and novel materials. Additionally, tissue engineering with biomaterials, nanotechnology, gene therapy, and photobiomodulation, also known as low-level laser therapy, is being practiced.

With over 2.5 crore orthopaedic surgeries performed annually, advanced implants and precision-based surgeries are key to achieving better outcomes. "In the last decade, orthopaedic and muscle repair treatments in India have rapidly advanced with the adoption of global innovations," said Dr Arvind Mehra, senior director and HOD, orthopaedics, Paras Health, Gurgaon.

"Robotic-assisted surgery, smart implants, augmented reality in operation planning, and telemedicine have made procedures more precise, minimally invasive, and widely accessible. Regenerative medicine — including PRP (or platelet-rich plasma), stem cells, and osteoblast-based therapies — is helping patients avoid major surgeries and recover in record time," he added.

"In recent years, the field of orthopaedic repair has shifted from mechanical solutions toward biologically driven techniques that leverage a patient's cells and proteins," said Dr Rajeev Verma, chairman of department of orthopaedics and joint replacement, Manipal Hospital, Dwarka, New Delhi.

"Technological breakthroughs, such as 3D printing, robot-assisted surgeries, and bioactive surface modifications, now enable patient-specific implants and faster recovery," said Dr Mohit Nahata, consultant in orthopaedics and joint replacement surgeon, Altius Hospital, Bangalore.

"Together, these innovations help surgeons offer more personalised, effective care, reducing complications and restoring mobility faster," he added.

Dr Subramania Iyer, professor and chairman of plastic and reconstructive surgery at Amrita Hospital, Kochi, is using newer innovations, such as the patient's muscle or bone for muscle repair.

The renowned doctor, who performed the country's first hand transplant, stated that for individuals who have lost muscle function, particularly in the hand due to birth injuries or accidents, or facial movement due to injury or surgery, can be restored through the transfer of functioning muscles.

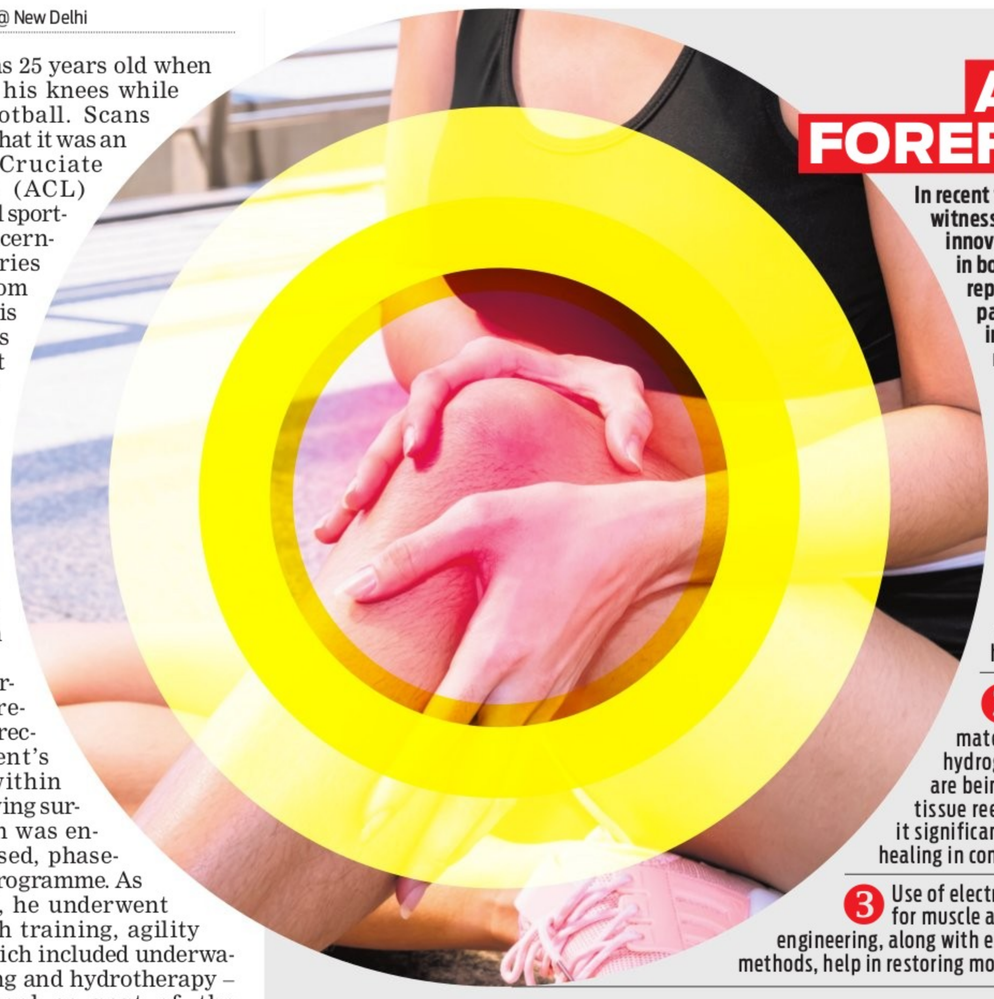
This is done by taking expendable muscles from another part of the body, connecting them to the recipient area, and then linking the blood vessels and motor nerves. "Similarly, bone transfer is also possible to correct deformities or defects using microvascular surgery," he added. In this process, a bone is taken from one part of the body and connected to the new site, along with its blood supply, allowing it to survive as a living bone in the new location.

The cost factor

What truly sets India apart is the cost, said Dr Mehra. "We offer these cutting-edge treatments at 40–50% lower cost than in the US, the UK, or Germany. Patients not only heal quicker but also spend less time in the hospital and face fewer complications. As doctors, this empowers us to treat more people effectively — including those from underserved or rural areas — with the same quality and outcomes seen in the best global hospitals."

Though these newer advances have led to faster recovery times and improved patient care, what is equally important is understanding the well-known proverb – prevention is better than a cure.

"Regular exercise, combined with resistance training, helps maintain optimal bone and muscle health. One should avoid smoking and limit alcohol intake to preserve bone density," Dr Mehra added.



INDIA AT THE FOREFRONT

In recent years, India has witnessed the adoption of innovative technologies in bone and muscle repair, enabling patient-specific impants and faster recovery. Some advanced bone and muscle treatments offered:

1. Tissue engineering has enabled the fabrication of body parts, particularly cartilage and bone, without relying on human donors
2. Bone regenerative materials, such as hydrogels and nanotubes, are being used for tissue reengineering as it significantly accelerates healing in complex cases
3. Use of electrical stimulation for muscle and tendon tissue engineering, along with emerging bioprinting methods, help in restoring mobility faster
4. Robot-assisted medical procedures and minimally invasive orthopaedic procedures are leading to better outcomes for patients
5. Polymers or magnesium alloy implants are becoming increasingly popular because they are biodegradable and do not require surgical removal
6. 3D-printed custom implants guarantee a perfect fit and a quicker healing process
7. Doctors are now able to regrow cartilage in the knee

Lung cancer cases in women on rise, say docs

SINDUJA JANE @ Chennai

NIVETHA*, a 45-year-old woman, had all the symptoms of lung cancer, but she neglected to pay attention to her symptoms as she was busy taking care of her husband who had a cardiac problem and was undergoing treatment. She had fatigue, breathlessness, and occasionally blood in sputum, but she kept postponing consultation with the doctor. When she finally decided to consult a doctor, she was in the advanced stage of lung cancer. Nivetha was a non-smoker, recollects Dr Archana Elangovan, consultant, surgical oncology, SIMS Hospital, Chennai.

Doctors say there has been a slight increase in the number of lung cancer cases in women. "We don't know if those are smokers or non-smokers. It could be because of an increase in smoking among women also," said Dr R Swaminathan, director of Cancer Institute (WIA) at Adyar, who is also the head of Department of Epidemiology, Biostatistics and Cancer Registry.

In India, as per 2022 data, 81,748 lung cancer cases were reported, of which 58,970 are men and 22,778 are women, according to the International Agency for Research on Cancer, Lyon, France, report of Tamil Nadu Cancer Registry Programme (TNCRP). Lung cancer, a type of cancer that originates in the lungs, has long been synonymous with smoking. The cancer occurs when cells in the lungs grow uncontrollably and form tumours, potentially interfering with the lungs' ability to function properly.

Highlighting the gravity of the situation, a pulmonologist at the Madras Medical College said 15 years ago he used to see 3-4 (lung cancer) cases in a year, but now it has increased to 10-15 cases per year. Nowadays, women with no history of tobacco use come with lung cancer, he added. "I treat women from rural and urban areas affected with lung cancer. In rural areas many are agricultural labourers. These are absolute numbers, and research should be done to ascertain the root cause of increasing lung cancer cases in women," he added.

During Covid, lung cancer was accidentally diagnosed in many women when CT scan was taken, "We could pick up masses in lungs. So, the diagnosis was early and we could treat it," said Dr Archana.

According to WHO, smoking is the leading cause of lung cancer, responsible for approximately 85% of all cases. Other risk factors are secondhand smoke, air pollution, and workplace hazards like chemicals and asbestos. Lung cancer is often diagnosed at advanced stages when treatment options are limited.

Lung cancer in non-smokers could be because of air pollution, and indoor pollution like using firewood for cooking (which usage has reduced now). Population density is another reason for environmental pollution. It is also because of genetics, background radiation, and other causes, say doctors.

Enforcement of existing laws such as Cigarettes and Other Tobacco Products Act (COPTA), 2003 strictly is important to prevent lung cancer, said Dr Swaminathan. Not smoking tobacco and cutting on other risk factors like preventing secondhand smoke, limiting long exposure to pollution, hazards etc are the best ways to prevent lung cancer.

WATCH OUT FOR SYMPTOMS
Cough that does not go away
Chest pain
Shortness of breath
Weight loss with no known cause
Fatigue
Blood in sputum
Lung infections that keep coming back
Early symptoms may be mild or dismissed as common respiratory issues, leading to delayed diagnosis
PREVENTION
Not smoking tobacco is the best way to prevent lung cancer
Avoiding secondhand smoke, air pollution, workplace hazards like chemicals and asbestos
Early treatment can prevent lung cancer from turning worse and spreading to other parts of the body

ARTIFICIAL SWEETENER IMPAIRS RESPONSE TO CANCER TREATMENT

In patients with melanoma or non-small cell lung cancer, consuming high levels of the artificial sweetener sucralose contributes to diminished responses to immunotherapy and poorer survival, researchers reported in Cancer Discovery.

When the researchers had 132 patients with advanced melanoma or non-small cell lung cancer answer detailed diet history questionnaires, they found that high consumption of sucralose was linked with lower effectiveness of immunotherapies across a range of cancer types, stages and treatment methods.

In experiments with mice, the researchers found that sucralose shifts the composition of microbes in the intestines, increasing bacterial species that degrade arginine, an amino acid that is essential for key immune cells called T cells. "When arginine levels were depleted due to sucralose-driven shifts in the microbiome, T cells couldn't function properly," study leader Abby Overacre of the University of Pittsburgh said in a statement. "As a result, immunotherapy wasn't as effective in mice that were fed sucralose."

Laying the groundwork for a solution to the problem, the same researchers also found in the mice that supplements that boosted levels of arginine mitigated the negative effects of sucralose on immunotherapy, an approach they now hope to test in humans.

"It's easy to say, 'Stop drinking diet soda,' but when patients are being treated for cancer, they are already dealing with enough, so asking them to drastically alter their diet may not be realistic," Overacre said. Agencies

Metabolic syndrome behind 23% of male infertility cases in India

Low testosterone levels, high fasting insulin, increased BMI or waist size, and high levels of oxidative stress are a few early warning signs of metabolic syndrome, says Dr Gauri Agarwal, IVF specialist and founder of Seeds of Innocens, in an interview with Ashish Srivastav. Edited excerpts:

■ How is metabolic syndrome contributing to the rise in male infertility cases in India?

Metabolic syndrome, which includes problems like obesity, high blood pressure, high sugar, and abnormal cholesterol, is becoming a major reason for male infertility in India. It affects hormone levels, damages sperm, and harms the testicles, leading to issues like low sperm count, poor sperm movement, and, in some cases, no sperm at all. Studies show that about 23% of men from infertile couples in India have metabolic syndrome, and only 25% of Indian men meet normal semen standards. Male-related problems now cause around 40 to 50% of infertility cases in the country.

■ What specific components of metabolic syndrome like obesity, insulin resistance, or hypertension most significantly affect male reproductive health?

Among metabolic syndrome components, obesity and insulin resistance most significantly harm male reproductive health. Obesity causes hormonal imbalances — specifically lower testosterone and higher estrogen, raises inflammation and scrotal temperature, and damages sperm quality, count, motility, and DNA integrity. Insulin resistance, often tied to diabetes and prediabetes, further suppresses testosterone, increases oxidative stress, and harms sperm DNA even in otherwise healthy men.

■ Can lifestyle changes or medical interventions targeting metabolic syndrome reverse infertility or improve sperm quality in men?

Yes, lifestyle changes and medical care can help improve fertility in men with metabolic syndrome. Losing weight, eating a balanced diet, staying active, and keeping blood sugar in check can boost testosterone levels and improve sperm quality, including how well the sperm moves and how they are shaped. A 2023 study in Frontiers in Endocrinology showed that men who take steps to manage metabolic problems often see better sperm counts and higher chances of having a child, either naturally or with medical help.

INTERVIEW
DR GAURI AGARWAL

■ Are there any early warning signs that indicate infertility risk in men with metabolic syndrome?

Low testosterone levels, high fasting insulin, increased BMI or waist size, and high levels of oxidative stress are a few early warning signs. Early changes in semen parameters like low sperm count, poor movement (motility), abnormal shape, and high DNA fragmentation are also important signs.

■ How prevalent is erectile dysfunction among men with metabolic syndrome, and how much does it contribute to infertility?

Erectile dysfunction is very common in men with metabolic syndrome. Obesity, high blood sugar, and high blood pressure pose difficulty in getting or keeping an erection. This happens because of poor blood flow, low testosterone, and ongoing inflammation in the body. While erectile dysfunction doesn't directly affect sperm, it can make it harder for couples to conceive naturally by reducing the chances of regular sexual activity.

■ Do medications used to treat components of metabolic syndrome (like statins, metformin, or antihypertensives) impact male fertility either positively or negatively?

Yes, some medications used to manage these conditions can impact male fertility both positively and negatively. Metformin, which is commonly used for type-2 diabetes, may improve sperm quality by improving insulin sensitivity and reducing inflammation, especially in men with metabolic issues. Some statins used to lower cholesterol and antihypertensives used to control blood pressure might affect hormones or lower libido in certain individuals, which can influence fertility. However, not all men are affected the same way and responses can vary.

DESI BOYS ON THE BLOCK

Savan Kotecha, a 17-time Grammy nominee and hitmaker for One Direction, Ariana Grande, Ed Sheeran and more, has formed an Indian boy band, featuring a member from Karnataka

IN the '90s, when musician Savan Kotecha first entered the US music industry with dreams of being in a boy band, he was bluntly told that 'no girl will put an Indian guy on her wall' and he should focus on songwriting instead. "I knew back then that was true, but I always waited for the day when it would be possible to do it," says Kotecha. Having written hits like What Makes You Beautiful and One Thing for One Direction, God Is A Woman for Ariana Grande, Sapphire for Ed Sheeran, and many more, Kotecha has put together a boy band under his label Visva Records, along with Republic Records, and Universal Music India which may just make his doubters in the '90s change their minds.

Named OutStation, the band has 5 members from across the country between the ages of 17 and 22. One member, Bhuvan Shetty, is from Udupi, Karnataka. Others include Hemang Singh from Prayagraj, Mashaal Shaikh from Goa, Kurien Sebastian, a Malayali from Delhi, and Shayan Pattem from Hyderabad.

The aim was to create a band that 'feels truly Indian', says Kotecha, adding. "I think what K-pop did right was that it got so big in South Korea that the rest of the world had to pay attention. We don't need to look to the West for validation. I want them to become a phenomenon in India first, and if it gets big enough, the West will pay attention."

Shetty was scouted through his social media profile, where he regularly covers songs with a guitar accompanying his soulful voice. Clearing a multi-round audition process, he was put in a boot camp with 11 other boys. "The camp was pretty hectic, there was no time at all, but it was life-changing," says Shetty. Kotecha explains its purpose, ending with 5 boys finally selected, "We made sure we had vocal coaches and choreographers teaching them, but we also did things like go busking on the beach and start performing, getting them used to what being in a band would feel like. It was a chemistry test, but also about seeing everyone's work ethic."

What can we expect the band to sound like? Kotecha has envisioned a pan-Indian musical flavour that still feels like the pop music that people love about boy bands. "While we aren't completely sure of the final sound at this stage, we want to bring a regional touch to pop music," says Shetty, who taught himself classical music and grew up listening to 5 Seconds of Summer and Yungblud. He shares a glimpse into what the band is working on, saying, "We've worked on a few verses and choruses so far and are planning to make a bunch of short songs adding up to 40-45 minutes long."

While Kotecha emphasises that OutStation will sound completely different from One Direction, with whom he's worked extensively, he admits to bringing some things he's learnt with them to his work with OutStation. "When One Direction was first put together, chemistry and the bond they had together were really important. It has been the same for OutStation – to give them the freedom to be themselves. For example, none of the guys are natural dancers, so while they're going to move on stage, we're not doing any elaborate choreographies," says Kotecha, revealing that the band will soon start performing in different cities.

Since the announcement, OutStation has been preparing for their debut in Mumbai and keeping their fledgling fanbase updated through social media – short covers of songs, moments from their days, and snippets of studio sessions. "In the morning, I do my riyaaz, which I never skip, then movement sessions, performance practice, vocal lessons..." lists off Shetty.

What is the dream all this work is leading up to? "I want to go all out," says Shetty with the hint of a smile, "Be the greatest boy band that ever existed."

CE delves into the rising trend of urban companies hiring canines to lift employee morale and ease stress at workplace

Paws Between Work

Aura

Tatsu

IMAGINE walking into your office and being greeted by a furry friend with a wagging tail! Sounds like a daydream? Well, the concept has become a reality with many city-based companies hiring dogs as their Chief Happiness Officers (CHOs) or simply having them as valued members of the team, to boost morale and reduce the stress of employees.

At Capillary Technologies, Aura is the company's beloved CHO. She visits the office once a week, with a targeted duty to spread joy and warmth wherever she goes. "Having a dog in the office has been a game-changer for our employees," says Ritu Agast, HR director., adding, "It's amazing to see how a simple belly rub or playtime can melt away stress and anxiety."

Aura's presence has become a highlight of the week, with employees eagerly looking forward to her visits, she shares.

Similarly, at Elevate Performance, Tatsu is the company's Chief Performance Officer. He's a rescue dog who has become an integral part of the team. "Tatsu's presence has been a huge morale booster for our employees," says Monika Kamath, founder. "The standard response that I get from everybody is questions like, 'Is he coming to the office? I want to meet him. I'm so much happier coming, doing my sessions when he's there'," she exclaims.

With the inclusion of canines at workplace, companies have witnessed a drastic shift in employee mood. According to Agast, having dogs in the workplace can have numerous benefits, including reduced stress, improved morale, and increased productivity. "We've seen employees take small, healthy micro breaks just to be around Aura. These interactions are helping people reset mentally, which indirectly boosts overall well-being and helps with focus when they return to work," she explains.

At Zerodha, Zero, a rescued indie dog, is a valued member who is a mood shifter to many employees. "One night, someone brought a one-year-old wounded dog in front of our house. She was not able to walk. We got her the right treatment and sent her to our office and named her Zero," shares Revathi Kamath, mother of Nikhil and Nithin Kamath, co-founders of Zerodha.

Now Zero is a beloved staffer who roams around happily spreading 'paw'sitivity. "She goes to Nithin's cabin and sleeps there. Everybody loves her because she won't bark and make a nuisance of herself. Now, she has become one of the employees," says Revathi.

With several Bengaluru-based companies having already adopted the approach, Monika feels it's likely that more companies will follow the trend. "I think more companies will consider hiring dogs, but it's also essential to ensure their safety and well-being," she adds.

Another thing to keep in mind is the well-being of the employees who are allergic to dogs. "We've implemented certain floor restrictions to accommodate everyone's sentiments and allergies. We also ensure there's no loud music when Aura is around, and we've assigned her a comfy space to rest," shares Agast.

By providing comfort, canine CHOs are revolutionising the way people work and interact. "Employees love Zero, and to know that someone is waiting for them at the workplace is in itself a positive and encouraging part," adds Revathi.

Insurance summit focuses on expanding coverage

The Health Insurance Summit 2025 was recently organised by the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) Southern Region's Health and Wellness Task Force in Bengaluru. The event brought together over 150 participants, including representatives from hospitals, insurance companies, government regulators, and industry leaders, to discuss the evolving health insurance landscape in India. The summit, led by Dr S Chandrakumar, aimed to address key challenges such as rising healthcare costs, limited insurance penetration, and the need for customer-centric policies. It focused on how digital transformation can simplify insurance processes, enhance transparency, and build trust. The primary goal was to explore collaborative solutions for expanding insurance coverage and to ensure faster reimbursement of patient treatment expenses.

CHRIST UNIVERSITY LAUNCHES FINANCIAL INCLUSION DRIVE TO EMPOWER CITIZENS

In a step towards connecting academic expertise with societal impact, CHRIST (Deemed-to-be University), School of Commerce, Finance and Accountancy, Department of Commerce, inaugurated the initiative "Financial Inclusion Drive: Commerce 2 Common Citizen", a three-day drive conducted in collaboration with the State Bank of India recently.

The drive was inaugurated by Dr Fr Viju P D, Pro Vice Chancellor, CHRIST (Deemed-to-be University); Dr Tomy K Kallarakal, Dean; Dr Karthigai Prakasam C, Associate Dean; and Dr Biju Toms, Director, from the School of Commerce, Finance and Accountancy; along with Dr Amalanathan S, Head, Department of Commerce. They were joined by State Bank of India officials Aparna Reddy, Regional Manager, Koramangala; Vineet, Branch Head; Somraj, Digital Officer; Ankush, Demat Officer; Teja, Mutual Fund Officer; and N Sujata, Financial Inclusion Officer.

The drive aimed to promote financial literacy and awareness of government-backed financial security schemes. Kiosks were set up within the University campus to assist participants in accessing these schemes through new account openings with the State Bank of India. The initiative simplified complex financial schemes in the local language, enabling individuals to make informed and independent financial decisions. The schemes presented included Atal Pension Yojana (APY), Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana (SSY), Public Provident Fund (PPF), Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY), Pradhan Mantri Jeevan Jyoti Bima Yojana (PMJJY), Pradhan Mantri Vidyalaxmi Scheme (PMVS), National Pension Scheme (NPS) and Pradhan Mantri Suraksha Bima Yojana (PMSBY).

A dedicated team of 40 MCom and BCom student volunteers, alongside SBI officials, facilitated the drive, resulting in around 250 new accounts opened on campus over three days.

Special appreciation was extended to Faculty Coordinators Dr Girish S, Dr Vidya C M, Dr K V N Lakshmi and Dr Vinnarasi B, along with Student Coordinators Jahnavi, Helna and Deepshikha, supported by core volunteers Sriya, Maitreyee, Johns, Shakthi, Dharshan, Anushka, Gargi, Dhanush, Mariappan, Devika and others.

The initiative will soon be extended to rural areas including Kanakpura, Sakleshpur and Kolar, furthering inclusive access to financial security schemes.

FROM FINANCE TO FORESIGHT: RISE OF THE SMART CFO

Markets shift without warning. Supply chains strain under pressure. Investors demand growth while regulators insist on transparency. Strategic choices unfold across jurisdictions, currencies and digital ecosystems. In this context, decision-making has accelerated, yet the cost of poor decisions remains unchanged.

Finance now sits at the heart of enterprise resilience. It carries the weight of growth ambitions and the duty of safeguarding against risk. Cash, capital, compliance and credibility converge in the finance office. Weak structures obscure signals. Unclear ownership slows execution. Over-reliance on tools without logic turns visibility into noise.

This is where the Smart CFO stands apart. They design systems that align functions, establish clear ownership and build frameworks that enable consistency and confidence despite external volatility. Their advantage lies not in dashboards or models alone, but in the structural clarity that allows finance to act with speed and intent.

High-performing teams share traits. Planning cycles, reporting calendars and approvals align across regions and functions. Master data is governed and treated as an asset. Technology is selected for the decisions it supports, not its features. Finance works in step with commercial, procurement and operations through shared routines.

Smart CFOs also address complexity. Regional variations, legacy hierarchies and siloed systems create delays and erode confidence. Rather than working around this, they resolve it. They map decision flows, standardise codes, streamline assumptions and embed accountability.

Technology follows structure. Forecasting platforms unify assumptions, reporting tools provide trusted visibility and automated routines reduce effort. Precision, not proliferation, defines their approach.

True leadership begins with clarity. The Smart CFO designs for alignment, synchronising logic and performance rhythms so finance shapes decisions before they are made.

Expanded mandates add pressure. CFOs now lead risk, procurement, sustainability and technology strategy. Yet progress is hindered by poor data and unclear ownership.

Finance delivers real value when it enables comprehensive insights at scale. This capability depends on streamlining data structures, that enable right decisions at every step. The Smart CFO bring this intent and designs systems for sustainable growth.

BUILD A SOLID CORE WITH THESE SIMPLE BODYWEIGHT EXERCISES

A strong core supports almost every movement you do, from walking and lifting to running and even sitting upright. It plays an important role in improving posture, boosting balance and preventing injuries, especially in the lower back. You don't need to do endless crunches to build core strength. These effective bodyweight exercises target your abs, obliques, and lower back. Try these exercises to activate your core and build a stable, solid foundation.

LEG RAISES

- Lie on your back with your legs out in front of you, arms by your sides or hands tucked underneath your hips.
- Keep legs together and raise slowly, as straight as possible.
- Don't let your lower legs touch the floor – keep them hovering a couple of inches above. That is one rep.
- Keep your back flat throughout.

BOAT POSE

- Sit on the floor with your knees bent.
- Lean back slightly, with straight back.
- Stretch your arms out in front of you as you raise your feet off the ground with your legs together.
- Extend your legs so they are straight and your body forms a V shape – hold for as long as comfortable.

PLANK HOLD

- Get into a forearm plank position – elbows under shoulders, legs straight, core tight.
- Keep your body in a straight line from head to heels.
- Don't let your hips sag or rise too high.
- Hold the position for 20–60 seconds, or as long as possible .

DEAD BUG

- Lie on your back with arms extended toward the ceiling and knees bent at 90 degrees.
- Lower your right arm and left leg while keeping your core engaged.
- Return to the starting position and repeat on the opposite side – that's one rep.

BIRD DOG

- Get on all fours with your wrists under shoulders and knees under hips
- Extend your right arm forward and left leg back at the same time.
- Pause, keep your core engaged and hips level.
- Return to start and repeat on the other side.

RUSSIAN TWIST

- Sit with your knees bent front of you, heels on the floor and feet flexed.
- Raise your hands to your chest and lean back until you feel your core tighten.
- Slowly twist your torso from right to left, keeping your core tight – that is one rep.
- Add a dumbbell to level up this movement.

The Alocasia that roars for attention

THE GREEN MANUAL

MOVE aside boring potted palms and timid pothos. Alocasia, more glamorously known as Elephant Ear, is the luscious drama queen of the plant world that every landscaper and interiors wizard swears by.

Showstopper in semicovered balcony:

With giant, architectural leaves that look like something out of Jurassic Park, Alocasia makes your home or garden pop with Insta-worthy vibes. From the towering Giant Taro (6 feet tall, anyone?) to the pocket-sized 'Red Secret,' this family offers endless "Which one did you get?" conversation starters.

Ekta Chaudhary

Temperamental but worth it

Sun? Yes, but not the roasting midday sort. Water? Keep those gorgeous feet wet. This plant's ideal spa is in soil that's moist but never marshy. It's a voracious eater, so treat it like it's bulking for a bodybuilding competition. If you love fussing a bit, this leafy diva's an ideal charge.

Problems? Call the groomer

Leaves going crispy or browning at the edges? Or spider mites crashing the party? Blame inconsistent care or the odd monsoon romance with pests. The trick: snip off old leaves with flair and give regular leaf-wipes. You'll keep your Alocasia looking fresh and fabulous – just like the best-dressed lawns in town.

Easy plant propagation

Divide and rule – quite literally! Split mature clumps or try standard stem cuttings (for certain varieties) if you're feeling adventurous. They're happiest in the monsoon, just like most "outdoor only during wet season" Mumbai socialites.

Home aesthetic upgrade

Want a lush, jungle vibe that screams "designer garden?" Get an Alocasia cluster. Professional landscapers tuck one (or several) into shady spaces, breaking monotony, and making even window-boxes museum-worthy. Your neighbours will pop over for chai just to ask, "Where did you buy those?"

A designer and lover of textures making functional spaces aesthetic

NATURAL stones are the most loved material on any architectural or interior design project. Their durable nature provides the type of creative freedom every designer's dreams are made of. They are aesthetically pleasing, strong, and in most cases, weather-resistant too. Another impeccable characteristic of natural stones is their unique textures and unrepeatable beauty. Even if the same variety of stone, collected from the same place, is used, one will never be the same as the other. A luxury only natural stones can provide.

They can be used as wall and floor finishes, and are also a great option for various products. From cladding them on exterior walls, using them as flooring finishes, kitchen and washroom countertops, and interior walls, to using them as furniture finishes, washbasins, and smaller cutlery, they are most definitely a springy blessing in the design world. Let's get to know some of the most commonly used stones below

Marble

Marble is a metamorphic rock with veins of calcite crystals. It is formed from limestone and is exposed to heat and pressure. Though marble is strong, it is an easy-to-carve material, making its usage in the design industry flexible for aesthetic features. While it is porous, it's often treated to reduce porosity and water resistance. These stones are available in hues of white, pink, blue, brown, green, yellow, and grey, depending on the minerals. These are not completely stain-resistant, which makes them a complex choice for Indian kitchen countertops. Marble can be polished to a high shine finish, adding to the premium aesthetics of any space.

Granite

Granite is a hard stone, making it highly resistant to scratching. The texture is coarse-grained but homogenous visibly; this also gives granite its characteristic appearance and durability. This stone is highly durable and more resistant to wear and tear, making it long-lasting and a preferred material choice for exterior facades, countertops, sculptures, decorative art, and landscaping purposes such as pathways and retaining walls. The most widely used colours of granite are white and grey, and black.

Cuddapah

This is a natural limestone easily available throughout the country. The cost of this limestone is fairly economical in comparison to other natural stones. Cuddapah is strong and highly durable, making it a favourite for Indian kitchen countertops. It can be easily cut into any desired shape and size. It is available in various finishes like natural, polished, sand blasted, and brushed, making it versatile for interior and exterior applications.

Limestone

Limestone is one of the most commonly and widely distributed rocks on Earth, with a wide range. This stone is formed through the accumulation of marine organisms, primarily coral and shellfish, over millions of years. Over time, these materials compress and harden, forming limestone deposits. This is a sedimentary rock that can exhibit a wide range of textures and colours, depending on its composition. This is a widely used material in interior design for its aesthetic appeal, durability, and ability to regulate temperature. Its versatility to adapt to different design styles, from modern to rustic, makes it a widely chosen option. It can be used in floorings, wall panels, countertops, window sills, column cladding, and fireplaces.

There are various factors to be considered while picking a stone based on the various characteristics of natural stones like durability, porosity, mineral composition, influencing the colour, and the area of use. It's adaptable and can be used creatively in most cases.

GANESH BEGINS SHOOT FOR SRINIVAS RAJU'S NEXT; DEVIKA BHAT LANDS A DREAM DEBUT

Ganesh

Devika Bhat

With multiple projects on his plate, Golden Star Ganesh quietly kickstarts his next in Mysuru; a film that is backed by Samruddhi Manjunath under KVC Productions

A SHARADHAA

Golden Star Ganesh is juggling multiple film projects, and he has quietly kickstarted his next, which reunites him with Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi director Srinivas Raju. This untitled project officially went on floors with a low-key muhurath on August 3, and is currently being shot in and around Mysuru.

Backed by KVC Productions, produced by Samruddhi Manjunath, and presented by Viraat Sai Creations, the film sees Ganesh in a role unlike any he has played before. Known for his signature romantic charm, this time he's stepping into the shoes of an intellectual deeply connected to music, farming, and nature. The film is described as a romantic family drama with emotional storytelling set against scenic backdrops.

Devika Bhat lands a dream role opposite Ganesh

The film features two female leads, with Devika Bhat already on board. An MBA graduate-turned-aspiring actor, Devika makes her silver screen debut opposite Ganesh. Word has it that she has landed a performance-oriented part that places her squarely at the heart of the narrative. The hunt is still on for the second female lead, and the makers remain tight-lipped about other casting details.

The technical crew includes cinematographer Venkat Prasad, while Hi Nanna and Hridayam composer Hesham Abdul Wahab will score the music. Vijay Eshwar and Kraanthi Kumar are penning the dialogues for the film.

The makers have planned a 120-day shoot schedule, with the first 50-day stretch already underway in and around Mysuru. The production team is also exploring picturesque locations in Kerala, North India, Bhutan, and Paris.

Meanwhile, Ganesh continues to juggle with other commitments, including Yours Sincerely Ram, directed by Vikyath, Pinaka with Dhananjay, and an upcoming collaboration with lyricist-turned-director Arasu Anthare.

Srinivas Raju

Makers of Scam 1992 to adapt Jeffrey Archer novels

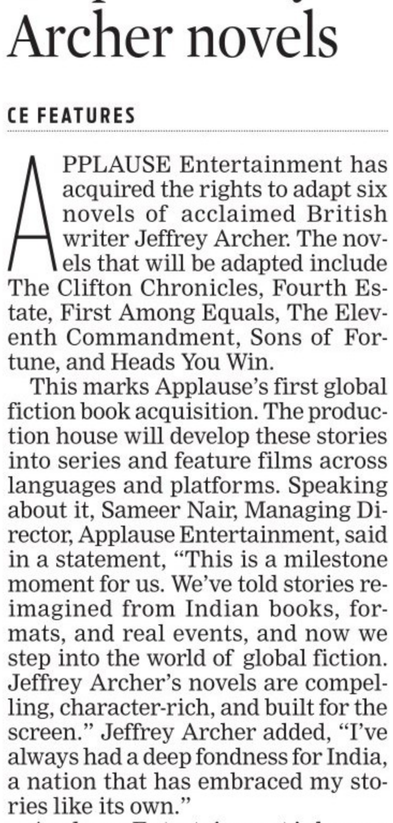
CE FEATURES

APPLAUSE Entertainment has acquired the rights to adapt six novels of acclaimed British writer Jeffrey Archer. The novels that will be adapted include The Clifton Chronicles, Fourth Estate, First Among Equals, The Eleventh Commandment, Sons of Fortune, and Heads You Win.

This marks Applause's first global fiction book acquisition. The production house will develop these stories into series and feature films across languages and platforms. Speaking about it, Sameer Nair, Managing Director, Applause Entertainment, said in a statement, "This is a milestone moment for us. We've told stories reimagined from Indian books, formats, and real events, and now we step into the world of global fiction. Jeffrey Archer's novels are compelling, character-rich, and built for the screen." Jeffrey Archer added, "I've always had a deep fondness for India, a nation that has embraced my stories like its own."

Applause Entertainment is known for producing shows like The Scam franchise, The Hunt: The Rajiv Gandhi Assassination Case, Black Warrant, and Criminal Justice. They also have a show on Mohandas Gandhi in the pipeline, which is helmed by Hansal Mehta.



Kamal Sridevi locks release date

The release date of the film, starring Sachin Cheluvarayaswamy, Sangeetha Bhat and Kishore, was announced with a gripping teaser

CE FEATURES

Kamal Sridevi, a film that has created buzz with its title, has officially locked September 19 as its theatrical release date. Starring Sachin Cheluvarayaswamy, Sangeetha Bhat, and Kishore, the film's recently released teaser sets the tone for an emotional, socially driven narrative layered with mystery and conflict.

Directed by VA Sunil Kumar, the film also features Ramesh Indira, Mithra, and Umesh. It is produced by BK Dhanalakshmi under Swarnambika Pictures, with Rajavardhan co-producing and leading the project's creative vision. Keerthan has composed the music, and Nagesh V Acharya is the cinematographer.

Kishore, who plays a cop, talks in detail about the film's subject. "I'm glad to be part of Kamal Sridevi because he doesn't shy away from uncomfortable truths. We've grown numb to news about rape and murder. But what if it happens in our backyard, to someone we know or love? This film confronts that numbness."

Referring to the real-life Sowjanya case in Dharmasthala, Kishore added, "There's still no justice. No closure. Through this film, we're not just acting, we're raising a voice. Silence helps no one."

A still from the film

Team Kamal Sridevi

He also praised the film's music. "I've worked with composer Keerthan for over 11 years. His work in this film is powerful. I believe this will earn him the recognition he truly deserves."

Sachin Cheluvarayaswamy, who plays the lead, shared. "The project started with a simple, powerful idea. It grew gradually, and Rajavardhan brought the right elements together. Director Sunil's clarity and the team's dedication made every step in the process worthwhile."

Creative producer Rajavardhan traced the origin of the film. "It all started with a line I heard in an auto, and that thought eventually became Kamal Sridevi. Six months ago, the industry was struggling. Instead of asking 'why,' we asked, 'what can we do?' This film is our answer."

Sangeetha Bhat, who plays a pivotal role, added, "The director did initially have some hesitation about whether I could pull off a character like Sridevi. But he was satisfied, and Rajavardan believed in me. Director Suni and the entire team gave me space to deliver. We have strong performers, and I hope the film connects with audiences."

I needed to honour the divine essence of the lotus through my directorial Padmagandhi : Suchendra Prasad

CE FEATURES

VETERAN Kannada actor K Suchendra Prasad, known for his intense performances and theatrical grounding, has taken a bold step as writer-director with Padmagandhi — a multilingual spiritual drama that had its Kannada, Sanskrit, and Hindi trailers and music launched recently.

Suchendra Prasad

Addressing at the launch event, Suchendra Prasad said, "I didn't want to merely film a story — I wanted to trace the fragrance of the divine. The lotus flower, sacred and symbolic, demanded a film that breathes its essence. Every frame of Padmagandhi is built from that sense of reverence."

The film, produced by SR Leela, a former MLC and Sanskrit scholar, blends spiritual philosophy with narrative storytelling. "Our intent was not just to make a film, but to invoke rasa — an emotional and philosophical experience," said Leela, who also announced the project as a tribute to the symbolic depth of padma gandha, or the divine fragrance of the lotus.

The Sanskrit trailer was launched by Kote Ramachandra Bhat, and performances of the film's original songs by Shankar Shanbhogue and others set the tone for a unique cinematic journey rooted in classical culture. The cast features K Mahapadma, Paripoorna Chandrashekhar, and renowned literary and academic personalities like Shatavadhani Dr R Ganesh, Dr Gauri Subrahmanya, Dr Prema, and Acharya Mrutyunjaya Shastri, among others — bringing rare intellectual gravitas to a commercial film setup.

Dr Deepak Paramashivan composed the music, with cinematography by Manuyaplar, Nagaraj Advani, and Giridhar Diwan, and editing by N Nagesh Narayanappa.

Reflecting on the journey, Suchendra Prasad added, "In an age of spectacle, we chose substance. Padmagandhi may be quiet, but it carries the weight of questions we often leave unasked."

Producer Leela echoed that sentiment, stating that Padmagandhi will serve as a bridge between classical aesthetics and modern screenwriting. "We've tried to stay true to the symbolic depth of the story — if the audience connects with even a part of that, our efforts will be worthwhile," she said.

Padmagandhi is expected to release later this year.

Matte Male Hoyyuttide wraps filming, eyes October release

CE FEATURES

MATTE MALE Hoyyuttide that explores themes of love, memory, and second chances, has officially wrapped production and is currently in post-production works, The film, which blends two timelines and boasts a rain-soaked narrative, is targeting an October 2025 theatrical release.

The feature marks a debut production for Gangadhar, a longtime assistant art director in the industry, under the Sri Gaviranganathaswamy Pictures banner. The film is being presented in his wife's name, Suma, with co-production support from Shruti Anil Kumar, who also plays a key role in the film as a professor.

Directed by Param Gubbi, a familiar name in industry circles for his behind-the-scenes work, the film is based on a short story by Kannada writer K Sadashiva. The team secured the rights through the late author's daughter, who resides in the US, and pledged a literary honor in his name through a donation to the Kannada Sahitya Parishat.

At a recent press meet held to mark the completion of filming, representatives from three major industry bodies — Narasimhulu (KFCC), Umesh Banakar (Producers' Association), and NRK Vishwanath (Directors' Association) — extended their support.

Lead roles are played by newcomer G Likhith and theater actor Jayavardhan, who appears in dual shades. Female leads include Sulakshna Kaira and Bhumika Gowda, alongside an ensemble cast featuring Chandrashekhar Reddy AM Prakash Murthy, Kumari Swarna, Shruti, Dinamani, and Kavya Kumari.

Set across two time periods — the 1980s and 2000s — Matte Male Hoyyuttide tells the story of two couples: one whose love story ends in heartbreak, and another that finds resolution. Bridging the past and present is rain — not just a motif but a silent character, underscoring the emotional arcs.

The film's tagline, Ella Nenapagutide hints at its introspective core.

Technical credits include Santha Rao Eppali on cinematography, Dhanush Veer on editing, Babu Khan handling production design. sic is composed by Athishay Jain, with story, screenplay, and dialogues by Kabbadi Narendra Babu, who was instrumental in shaping the project.
